RECEIVER FOR FIRM
IN WHICH PUBLIC
PUT $22,000,000Court Takes Charge of the
L. R. Steel Enterprises of Buffalo After Resignation of President.50,000 PERSONS PURCHASED STOCKState Recently Began Investigation, and Selling of Stock in 20 Enterprises
Was Discontinued.By the Associated Press.
BUFFALO, N. Y., March 8.—Receivers were appointed in Federal Court here today for the L. R. Steel enterprises, in which the public has invested about $22,000,000. L. R. Steel, the promoter, severed his connection with the companies, on Jan. 27, and since then direction of the Steel enterprises has been in the hands of a board of control.

The receivers were appointed on a suit in equity brought to conserve the assets of the various corporations. The petitioner is the National Toy and Metal Manufacturing Co. of Manitowish, Wis. Judge John R. Hazel named as receivers William W. Kelly, Buffalo, lumber merchant; David M. Lewis, New York, lawyer; and Charles Bennett Smith of Buffalo, former Congressman.

50,000 Persons Took Stock.
The Parent Steel Co. was organized in 1919 by Leonard R. Steel, who for several years had been identified with chain store companies. It later became known as L. R. Steel, Incorporated, and as the business grew subsidiaries were formed to sell stock to administer the real estate controlled by the various enterprises and for many other purposes.

Chief among the subsidiaries was the L. R. Steel Service Corporation, which handled the sale of stock in all the Steel concerns in which the public was invited to invest. Elaborate offices were opened in the larger cities of the United States and Canada and a large selling force was engaged to dispose of stock. Fifty thousand persons, it is stated, put more than $20,000,000 into the common and preferred stock.

Frequent conventions of the Steel stockholders were held, at which Steel was lauded as "a wizard in chain-store management," and the force was authorized to greater effort in the disposal of stock in Steel enterprises.

The first sign of distress came on Jan. 27, when it was announced that Leonard R. Steel had surrendered the presidency of the L. R. Steel Service Corporation and the L. R. Steel Realty Development Co., and had placed his stockholdings in these and other subsidiaries in the hands of an Executive Board.

Steel, it was intimated, left his enterprises without a dollar, except what was represented in his Steel security holdings. His city home previously had been sold and a beautiful country residence, where he now lives, was in his wife's name. Steel's health was shattered by his three years' devotion to the business, it was stated.

State Began Investigation.
M. M. Wilkins, general counsel for the steel corporations, was made chairman of the Executive Board. Stock selling it was announced, would be discontinued, but it was not until the middle of February that the stock-selling agency ceased to function. This was followed by an announcement that the State Attorney-General had been investigating the financial status of the Steel companies and that the Steel Executive Board had entered into a stipulation not to sell more stock.30 Persons at "Human Fly" Funeral.
NEW YORK, March 8.—When "Human Fly" Young climbed 700 feet out of a tall building in the fashion of a spider on a flagpole 25 or 30 stories above the street, he won the cheers of thousands as he defied death. Thousands on Broadway saw him climb Monday in a cage from the tenth floor of the Hotel Martineau in one of his thrilling stunts. Yesterday only 10 persons attended his funeral and only two floral pieces were placed on his bier.ALL - WOMAN JURY
FINDS MAN NOT GUILTY
OF LIQUOR CHARGEBy the Associated Press.
CIMARRON, Kan., March 8.—A all-woman jury that ever sat in a Kansas case returned a verdict of not guilty here in the case of the State vs. James Cecil, charged with having intoxicating liquor in his possession.

The 12 women were out seven hours, and 12 Cimarron men had to shift for themselves during the supper hour, while their wives were debating as to whether Cecil's car did or did not have a quart jar of intoxicating liquor in it. When it turned out a week ago while he was racing with the driver of another car.

Testimony for the defendant tended to show that the jar contained vinegar, and the 12 women finally agreed that it did.

HARVEY'S SPEECH
NOT JUSTIFIED,
BALFOUR SAYSAuthor of British Interallied Debt Note Says He Takes
"Less of Commercial View of the Deal."By the Associated Press.
LONDON, March 8.—Speaking in the House of Lords today, the Earl of Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the Cabinet of former Premier Lloyd George, declared that his circular note to the allies on the subject of interallied debts did not deserve the strictures passed upon it by American Ambassador Harvey in his recent speech here.

In concluding his explanation, the former Foreign Secretary said that, from a strictly commercial viewpoint Ambassador Harvey's statement might be correct, but that "I said in explanation of a commercial view of the deal."

"Silence on my part after such a statement by one holding the high post of Ambassador would probably be misunderstood," Lord Balfour said in explanation of his reply.

Referring to the statement in his note that the British debt to America was incurred for other countries, and not for Great Britain, he insisted upon the truth of this statement in substance if not in form, and proceeded to give facts and figures in substantiation of his claims.

In his address at the dinner of the Pilgrims Feb. 25, Ambassador Harvey quoted from the Balfour note as follows: "Under the agreement arrived at, the United States, insisted in substance, if not in form, that, though our allies were to stand the money, it was only on our security that they were prepared to lend it." The Ambassador declared that Great Britain had not been asked to guarantee the payment of a single dollar loaned by the United States for the use of any country.

Under Pressure.SACCO ON 22D DAY
OF HUNGER STRIKEArguments Will Be Heard Tomorrow on Motion for
New Trial for Two Radical Prisoners.By the Associated Press.
DORCHESTER, Mass., March 8.—A battle of affidavits was in prospect as prosecuting attorneys and attorneys for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti made preparations today for the hearing tomorrow on motions for a new trial for the two men who were convicted of the murder of a paymaster and his guard in South Braintree. Meanwhile Sacco began the twenty-second day of his hunger strike with little apparent change in his condition.

The defense bases its motions for another trial on affidavits of witnesses that they testified falsely at the first trial, and that the jury foreman, who has since died, had in the jury room three cartridges similar to those taken from a gun found in Sacco's possession. In counter affidavits filed by the State yesterday, two witnesses repudiated their affidavits for the defense and asserted they had been obtained under pressure.

The surviving jurors in affidavits for the State said the cartridges were not placed in view in the jury room and were not mentioned during the jury's deliberations. Louis Palea, a shoemaker, who testified at the trial that he saw Sacco with a gun in his hand in an automobile fleeing from the murder scene, says in the prosecution's counter affidavit that he signed a retraction of his identification of Sacco while he was refused to make public statements in his past life. She said that after a conference she signed up on the repeated demands of her son and others present a statement, the contents of which she now repudiates.

Mrs. Lela B. Andrews of Quincy, who identified Sacco at the trial, asserted she was forced to sign a declaration that her statements on the witness stand were false. Her counter affidavit related that her son by a former marriage had been brought from Maine to Boston by representatives of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee and that he had urged her to sign statements threatening if she refused to make public statements in his past life. She said that after a conference she signed up on the repeated demands of her son and others present a statement, the contents of which she now repudiates.

SECRET SERVICE MEN LEAVE JAIL

Were Imprisoned With Alleged Leaders of Counterfeiting Band.
NEW YORK, March 8.—Secret Service Agents in New York yesterday emerged from Tombs prison as heroes of the "clean-up" by which the Government smashed an international counterfeiting plot running into millions.

The two posing to get information as "Salvatore Angelo and Thomas Jackson, Pittsburgh bankers," eager to purchase $100,000 of bogus bank notes for $25,000, had been arrested along with alleged ring leaders of the band, and were committed to the Tombs in default of $10,000 bail. While in the Tombs, they obtained information which led to two more arrests—those of Elio Schemino and Salvatore Esposito, who were arrested yesterday. Schemino was held in $10,000 bail and Esposito in $2,000 to await action by a Federal grand jury. They are charged with uttering forged notes.

Marion Is Halted to Let
One of the Jurors Visit His Sick Wife.By the Associated Press.
MARION, Ill., March 8.—The second Herrin riots trial was halted today by the illness of Mrs. Nathan Barnes, wife of one of the jurors. Judge D. T. Hartwell announced a recess at the opening of the morning session to permit Barnes to go to his wife's bedside.

Hugh Willis, State Board member of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, was identified at the trial yesterday as being the man who gave an order to the mob at the Lester Strip Mine "to kill them all" as it marched from the vicinity with 48 men. Robert Tracy, a survivor of the riots, made the identification. Willis was firing one of the locomotives at the mine when the outbreaks started.

Assault on McDowell.
Ouis Clark, another of the six defendants, made the identification. Willis was the first to be named by Tracy as one of the men who assaulted C. K. McDowell, superintendent of the mine, who was shot to death.

John Willis arrived at the scene of the slayings, Tracy said. Willis told the mob to "kill them all." Firing started with the unnamed prisoners lined up before a barbed wire fence. Tracy said one bullet struck him, but he escaped.

John S. Shaffer, clerk in a Herrin hardware store, failed to identify the voice of Willis as the man who ordered guns to be taken from the miners as he had in the first trial. Attorneys for the defense claimed a victory when Judge Hartwell ruled out part of the testimony given by Shaffer.

Tracy, now a railway fireman, at the time of the outbreak, he testified, was firing one of the locomotives at the mine and was a union man, being a member of the International Brotherhood of Steamshovel Workers and Druggists.

"Don't kill these men on the public highway, where there are women and children," he quoted Willis as saying. "Take them over into the woods and don't let one get away; kill them all."

The witness then also picked out Ouis Clark from among the six defendants charged with the murder of Antonio Malachuk, former soldier, victim of the Somme, and the Argentine, and one of the victims of the tragedy.

Says He Shot to Kill.
Tracy testified that he had seen Clark walk up to McDowell, curse him and beat him over the head with the butt end of a pistol. He said Clark told McDowell:

"I'm going to kill you and tear you into pieces for half to catch fish fresh, you son of a bitch. I'm going to send your soul to hell myself."

On cross-examination, Tracy said that after firing on the mine, he started to get a gun went to the top of one of the mine buildings and returned to the fire.

"Whom did you shoot at?" he was asked. "I shot at those who were firing at me."

"You shot to kill?" "Yes, sir."

PARIS RADIO STATION
ALWAYS DROWNING
OUT 'UEBER ALLES'Germans Claim Eiffel Tower
Interferes With Concerts
From Eberswalde.By the Associated Press.
EBERSWALDE, Germany, March 8.—There is a merry little wireless battle going on between the Eiffel tower in Paris, with its high power wireless apparatus, and the Lorenz broadcasting station in Eberswalde. The latter has been distributing concert programs to the central European countries regularly twice a day. Since it is beginning to receive complaints from abroad, particularly from Holland and Switzerland, declaring the transmission of some concert numbers is so disturbed that they are unintelligible.

Investigation has revealed that stories read from the works of the Bavarian humorist, Roda Roda, as well as a phonograph record giving Isolde's death scene from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" went through as clear as a bell, and yet whenever "Deutschland ueber Alles" was put on it sounded at the receiving end like a conversation at the tower of Babel.

The Germans claim that the Eiffel tower keeps a close watch on the programs and that whenever it finds a dispatch distasteful it immediately turns up sending apparatus to the same wave lengths as that used by the Lorenz station and fires away with a counter program. Consequently neither the German nor the French numbers are intelligible.

MELBOURNE, Fla., March 8.—Coming ashore at noon here today from his vacation houseboat, President Harding had a round of golf over the Melbourne Country Club course and then resumed the cruise trip here a stop was made at Rockledge, where Mrs. Harding was greeted by her brother, C. B. Kilgus. The pioneer is not a speedy carter and because of the danger of grounding the narrow channel at speed will be made. Her average is about six or eight miles an hour.

Mrs. Harding appeared on deck at New Smyrna yesterday and almost as the winter colony greeted the party.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The gorgeously brilliant costumes worn by Enrico Caruso in some of his most popular roles were placed on the auction block yesterday and sold for little more than a song. The highest price paid was $70. It was that costume that Caruso wore as Radames in "Aida." Another costume for the same character was sold for $45.

The sixteen century Brescian walnut cabinet used as an altar for the baptism of Gloria Caruso brought $425. It was declared that Mrs. Caruso's share of the receipts would be for the Caruso foundation for the benefit of the needy musicians.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 8.—Faithful negroes who stood by their masters during the Civil War were voted pensions by the South Carolina Legislature yesterday, when the House passed a bill providing such pensions, which already had passed the Senate by a vote of 67 to 24.

The bill provides that slaves who served the State and their masters in the Confederate Army during the war shall be granted pensions under virtually the same conditions as those now paid to Confederate veterans.

FIRM'S CREDITORSFact Established That Walk-

With Money Taken Out of Harris & Kober Company.$174,000 PAID ON PURCHASE PRICEHearing Discloses Bankrupt
Importers Raised Hundreds of Thousands on "Kited" Checks in Last 15 Months.

Further examination yesterday before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles of Louis K. Harris and Samuel Kober, president and vice president, respectively, of the defunct Harris & Kober Diamond Importing Co., 704 Olive street, disclosed that the firm, which had pledged most of its diamond merchandise and accounts to Simon Van Raalte, millionaire real estate operator and money lender, at a discount and interest rate amounting to 18 per cent a year, had raised money in the last 15 months on accommodation paper amounting to $256,000 and hundreds of thousands of dollars on "kited" checks.

During the time of these transactions the company was in desperate financial straits, had no free assets nor cash, and depended entirely upon subterfuge for capital with which to do business. It was further disclosed that the firm has no free assets and that both Harris and Kober individually are without funds. The firm was organized in 1905 with $12,000 capital. Its liabilities are shared by creditors to be about $1,250,000.

Hope for Creditors Rises.
But hope for the creditors rose yesterday when Morris G. Levinson, counsel for the receiver, established the fact that, although Harris and Kober as individuals claim to own the Walker Jewelry & Loan Co., a pawnshop at 213 North Seventh street, which they purchased from Van Raalte in 1921, the money used by them to make the purchase was taken from their diamond importing company, and that this money really belongs to the creditors of the latter company.

It was shown that Harris and Kober, as individuals, have paid $174,000 on the purchase price of $374,000 that they agreed to pay Van Raalte for the business, all of which was taken from the treasury of the Harris & Kober Diamond Importing Co., and attorneys for the receiver and creditors hope to recover this money.

Statements Only Calculated.
The financial statements made by the concern from time to time, Harris testified, were only calculated. He knew more than a year ago that the concern was in financial straits, and yet he borrowed money and purchased merchandise on questionable paper in the hope of stemming the tide of reverses that he met at every turn. He had hoped to make a "killing," but factually he had lost it. "If the banks had not closed down on me," he testified, "I could have pulled through. I am very sorry, Mr. Coles."Hearing Resumed Today.
The hearing was resumed this afternoon with further examination of Kober and the firm's bookkeeper. A temporary order issued by Federal Judge Faris yesterday, restraining Van Raalte from disposing of diamonds valued at $195,000 belonging to the Harris & Kober Diamond Importing Co., which he holds as pledges for loans, is returnable in the Federal Court Monday, when Van Raalte must show cause why it should not be made permanent.

Thus far attorneys for the receiver and creditors have traced $195,000 worth of diamonds belonging to the Harris & Kober company to Van Raalte; $119,000 worth to the Walker Jewelry & Loan Co. and some individual pledges to other pawnshops, aggregating $50,000. The receiver, T. G. W. Schenck, has found diamonds valued at about $75,000 in the firm's stock. This approximately totals $422,000.

All Other Assets Wiped Out.
The company has about $25,000 cash in a local bank, but this same bank has paper of the concern that will wipe out this balance. The only other possible assets discovered is a $350,000 equity owned by Kober in a local apartment house, but he has assigned this to a relative for debt.

Harris and Kober, as individuals, Continued on Page 3, Column 2.

AMBASSADOR IN CITY

PRINCE GELASIO CAETANI.

PRINCE CAETANI, ITALIAN AMBASSADOR, IN CITYMet by Delegation Headed by Local Consul—Will Remain
for Three Days.

Prince Gelasio Caetani, Italian Ambassador to the United States, arrived in St. Louis this morning for a three days' stay. He was met by a delegation headed by the local Italian Consul, Roberto di Violini, and went to Hotel Chase.

On his arrival at Union Station, the Ambassador, whose military reputation was gained in the Alpine campaign, had to make his way past mountainous piles of baggage. The B. & O. train on which he came from Cincinnati backed only part of the way into the train shed, as another train was standing on the track assigned to it, and this arrangement resulted in a long and obstructed walk to the gate. Prince Caetani, who is 45 years old, showed his agility and marked cheerfulness in circumventing the obstacles.

Of Distinguished Appearance.
Prince Caetani, who is descended from a family to which two Popes have belonged, is of distinguished appearance, being six feet tall. He wore a light gray suit, with tan shoes and a derby hat, and a dark overcoat with fur collar. He speaks English readily, having spent several years of his earlier life in this country as a student and a mining engineer.

The Ambassador said to reporters that he was visiting this and other cities which have large numbers of residents of Italian origin, to look into the conditions under which they live.

In reply to a question as to his view of the Ruhr occupation, he said: "We shall have to wait and see. Great Britain and the United States advised against it, but France went ahead, and now we can only await developments."

"Policy of Turbidity to Delay."
In the Near East, the Ambassador said in reply to another question, he sees no recent development of importance. "It is the policy of the Turk always to delay," he commented.

Prince Caetani will go to Springfield, Ill., tomorrow morning, returning to St. Louis on a night train. He will speak to the Round Table Club at the St. Louis Club Saturday night. He will leave Sunday to continue his round of cities.

The history of the Caetani family dates from the ninth century, when its head was Duke of the city of Gaeta. The Popes who came from the family were Gelasio II and Boniface VIII; the latter a contemporary of Dante. The Prince's grandfather was temporary Governor of Rome after the taking of the city by the forces of United Italy in 1870, and his father, Onorato, was a Representative, a Senator, and Mayor of Rome.

Prince Caetani studied engineering, graduating in 1901 at the Royal University of Rome, and in 1902 after a two-years' course at Columbia University, New York, obtaining the degree of Mining Engineer. He worked in various capacities in mines in California, Alaska, Mexico and Colorado, and was a consulting engineer, with offices in San Francisco, when the outbreak of the European war caused him to return.

BERLIN, March 8.—A telegram from Dortmund states that the French re-entered that city today, surrounding a school house and disarming the police who were quartered there. The force was removed to an unknown destination. The French allowed the patrolmen to take their belongings with them.

President Loebe of the Reichstag announces that Pastor Korrel, deputy of the occupied area, has been expelled by the Rhineland Commission on account of alleged inflammatory speeches.

A dispatch from Karlsruhe says that French troops in motor lorries have crossed the Maxau bridge, apparently with the object of reinforcing the French custom lines. The railway line between Karlsruhe and Kehl was occupied by the French yesterday morning; they ejected the German official and seized a number of railway cars, some of them loaded and dispatched them in the direction of Alsbach.

Essen and Duisburg have been isolated from rail communication with the rest of the Ruhr, according to the Berliner Tagblatt. The railway station at Langendreer, one of the largest switching points in the Ruhr, a few miles east of Bochum, has been occupied, as well as that of Walscheid, to the west of Bochum, and the railroad line from Dortmund to Bochum to Essen is blocked.

German press reports from Langendreer say the French recently forced 500 children en route from Bochum to Bremen to leave their train at Langendreer and walk barefoot to Bochum in a driving rain, despite the protests of the chaplains that the party comprised sick and undernourished children who were on their way to the country to recuperate.

Additional Territory East of Cologne Occupied.

By the Associated Press.
COLOGNE, March 8.—Additional territory east of Cologne was occupied yesterday by the French troops in order to give France complete control of all the customs posts in the right bank of the Rhine. By this move the British bridgehead at Cologne is now surrounded by French patrols and outposts. The area east of Cologne for the present is being patrolled by the French. The customs posts at the Derringshausen Railroad Junction and in the town of Wipperfurth, south of Elberfeld, were occupied by the French Tuesday, and detachments of French troops were stationed at Grafrath and Hirschfeld to guard the line of communication extending from Rumscheid just beyond the British area.

MRS. SALUDES,

French Woman Second to Be Found Guilty in Three Weeks of Shooting Faith-

TAKES POISON, BEATS
HEAD AGAINST WALL

Will Be Sentenced Later for Killing Broker, Who, She

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PADUCAH, Tex., March 8.—J.
Beal Sneed yesterday shot and seriously wounded C. B. Berry on the street here. Several months ago
Berry shot and killed Wood Barton,
son-in-law of Sneed, the climax of
a new Sneed feud which had become more bitter each week. Berry was taken to a hospital, where it is said
his chances of recovery are fair, and Sneed was immediately arrested.

Three previous tragedies entered Sneed's life. A decade ago Sneed pursued Al Boyce through the United States and after he had been elop-
ing with Sneed's wife, he was taken up the trail of A. G. Boyce, Al's father,
and killed him.

The elder Boyce, 70 years old, was the first victim. He was killed in the lobby of a Fort Worth hotel and Sneed
was acquitted, making his chief
defense protection of his home.

The elder Boyce, it was shown, had
written his son after his elopement
urging him to "stand hitched" and
that he would give him his aid.

Soon after he was found not guilty,
Sneed returned to his home in Amarillo and, with the help of a ranch hand, B. B. Epting, he kept nightly vigil in an empty house
which Al Boyce usually passed when walking home. At last the younger Boyce appeared in Amarillo
several months after his elopement.

Unless her attorney, James A.
Turley, succeeds in having the conviction set aside, or in an appeal for
a new trial obtains a stay of sentence, Mrs. Saludes will know her fate Wednesday. She is the second
woman in three weeks to be convicted of second degree murder in
New York City for killing a faith-
less lover. Mrs. Lillian Ruess recently was sent to prison for at least 20 years for killing Dr. Abraham
Gluckstein.

The 12 men who pronounced Mrs.
Saludes guilty debated nearly five hours last night. It is believed the degree of murder. Only one man was said to have stood for first
degree murder and the electric chair. Nearly half the jury at first voted for manslaughter, carrying a
light sentence. In reaching their verdict the jury eliminated the plea
of her attorney that she was temporarily insane when she killed the
man who, he said, had robbed her
of her own life. Since Martellino's death she has failed at suicide seven times.

Mrs. Saludes was being led away
from the Bridge of Sighs when she
swallowed poison, then tried to slash
her throat with the lid of a small
tin box, and finally attempted to
dash her brains out against the walls of her cell in the Tombs.

J. BEAL SNEED, WHO KILLED
TWO BOYCES, SHOOTS SLAYER OF SON-IN-LAW IN NEW FEUD

Texan Under Arrest and Wounded Man May Recover—Chased Eloping Wife to Canada
a Decade Ago.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PADUCAH, Tex., March 8.—J.
Beal Sneed yesterday shot and seriously wounded C. B. Berry on the
street here. Several months ago
Berry shot and killed Wood Barton,
son-in-law of Sneed, the climax of
a new Sneed feud which had become more bitter each week. Berry was taken to a hospital, where it is said
his chances of recovery are fair, and Sneed was immediately arrested.

Three previous tragedies entered
Sneed's life. A decade ago Sneed
pursued Al Boyce through the United States and after he had been elop-
ing with Sneed's wife, he was taken
up the trail of A. G. Boyce, Al's father,
and killed him.

The elder Boyce, 70 years old, was
the first victim. He was killed in the lobby of a Fort Worth hotel and Sneed
was acquitted, making his chief
defense protection of his home.

The elder Boyce, it was shown, had
written his son after his elopement
urging him to "stand hitched" and
that he would give him his aid.

Soon after he was found not guilty,
Sneed returned to his home in Amarillo and, with the help of a
ranch hand, B. B. Epting, he kept
nightly vigil in an empty house
which Al Boyce usually passed when
walking home. At last the
younger Boyce appeared in Amarillo
several months after his elopement.

Unless her attorney, James A.
Turley, succeeds in having the
conviction set aside, or in an appeal for
a new trial obtains a stay of sentence, Mrs. Saludes will know her fate Wednesday. She is the second
woman in three weeks to be convicted of second degree murder in
New York City for killing a faith-
less lover. Mrs. Lillian Ruess recently was sent to prison for at least 20 years for killing Dr. Abraham
Gluckstein.

The 12 men who pronounced Mrs.
Saludes guilty debated nearly five
hours last night. It is believed the
degree of murder. Only one man was said to have stood for first
degree murder and the electric
chair. Nearly half the jury at first
voted for manslaughter, carrying a
light sentence. In reaching their
verdict the jury eliminated the plea
of her attorney that she was temporarily insane when she killed the
man who, he said, had robbed her
of her own life. Since Martel-
lino's death she has failed at suicide seven times.

Mrs. Saludes was being led away
from the Bridge of Sighs when she
swallowed poison, then tried to slash
her throat with the lid of a small
tin box, and finally attempted to
dash her brains out against the
walls of her cell in the Tombs.

PRESIDENT OF 3 BANKS IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

Wife Alleges Henry Carter Caused Her Humiliation in Presence of Others.

Henry Carter of 6935 Pershing avenue, president of three banks and an investment company, has been sued for divorce by Mrs. Frieda Kohl Carter, his second wife.

In her petition, filed at Clayton yesterday, Mrs. Carter alleges her husband, when under the influence of liquor, subjected her to brutal treatment and humiliated her in the presence of relatives and friends.
She cites numerous instances of such conduct.

A temporary injunction restraining Carter and the financial institutions headed by him from disposing of any of his property has been issued and Carter has been ordered to appear in Judge McElhinney's court March 17 and show cause why
the order should not be extended until after the divorce suit is settled.

Mrs. Carter asks an alimony and the custody of her two children, Bettie Louise, 22 months old, and Henry King Carter, 4 months old.

Married in 1919.
The Carters were married Sept.
18, 1919, at Venice, Iowa. Mrs.
Carter's former home, and separated last Tuesday, when Mrs. Carter returned to her father, Frederick Kohl, former vice-president of the Granite City National Bank, now residing in St. Louis County. She took the chil-

PAWNSHOP HELD TO BELONG TO DIAMOND
FIRM'S CREDITORS

engaged $5666 of the firm's money to engage in a building construction concern, for which they were given stock, but they have hypothecated their stock certificate. Harris was "concocting" to relate, he told Referee Cole.

The affairs of the defunct company are in such a tangled condition that the lawyers, who have been working nights on the case, are on the verge of despair. At every turn they are met with either pawn
tickets, "kited" checks, accommodation paper or failure of Harris or Kober to remember. They have been unable to find the National Jewelry Board of Trade and Eastern distributors, who "go the limit"

In the examination of Kober, it was brought out that the firm had a very hard time of it in transactions with Van Raalte, who, Kober said, had compelled the firm at one time to pawn diamonds to secure him in a transaction, and that at other times Van Raalte was either in the firm's office or he had been at one time demurred at demands for the return of collateral after loans had been paid.

He admitted "kiting," or borrowing checks from friends, which he would deposit in one bank and check against through another bank. He did this with a check of Van Raalte's,
but said it was without Van Raalte's knowledge or consent.

He admitted he had induced jewelers and pawnbrokers who owed his firm money for merchandise and were back in their payments to lend him additional notes, or accommodation paper as it is commonly called,
in which he would borrow money at banks or with which to purchase merchandise. He admitted that, in many instances, he borrowed money on other accommodation notes to take up maturing accommodation
notes.

Bank Stopped Firm's Credit.
This circle of unusual transactions
was maintained for a year, and then one of his best friends gave him a check for $1500 "to clear" in a local bank. It was returned marked "Insufficient funds" and the bank stopped the firm's credit.

"That was the end," said Harris.
Harris would go to New York, purchase a lot of diamonds and give paper virtually worthless in payment. He would return and Kober would sell them. If a buyer could not be found at market prices, discount was given. At one place they sold diamonds, a few days after purchasing them, at a discount of $80 a carat. In another sale they gave a purchaser a commission to purchase their merchandise at a big discount.

All the firms' assets were pledged to someone at excessive rates of interest. They went from pawnbroker to money lender, pledging their diamonds for loans on which they paid
1 1/2 per cent a month, or 18 per cent interest a year, the same rate. Harris has stated that Van Raalte has demanded.

Levinson and Levinson represent the receiver, A. M. Frumberg and H. A.
Glick, New York and local creditors,
and Bernard Groenfelder and Ben Phillips appeared for Harris & Kober.

ARGUMENTS BEGUN IN
'U. R. VALUATION CASE'

Permanent Street Car Fare Will Be Based on Ruling by Public Service Body.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 8.—
The Public Service Commission today is hearing arguments of the United Railways valuation case which has been pending in its various phases since May 11, 1918. Upon the valuation placed on the property in this proceeding will be based the permanent street car fare in St.
Louis.

T. E. Francis, attorney for Receiver, Wells, opened the argument.
He will be opposed by Henry S. Caul-field, special city counselor in this case. The argument will require the entire day.

The company is contending for a valuation of $70,000,000 or upward.
The receiver's engineers have appraised the property at $34,285,531,
and the city argues for $29,805,956.

Francis' Statement.
The company neither desires nor expects a valuation which will result in an increase in fare, Francis stated. Its demand for a $70,000, 000 valuation can be justified under any theory, he argued, because the company "has not asked for its full value of $70,000,000 or upward."

"When the decision in this case is written, I want your honors to state the theory upon which you have determined it, the elements considered and your reasons, so that the attorneys for the city will be prevented from coming here 10 years
hence and contending for a decreased rate base," Francis said. "Unless you do so, the city then will say that your valuation was on a reproduction cost as basis and prices will have receded then."

Francis forced and displayed what a sporting writer would term "classy footwork" in avoiding answers to questions by Chairman Kurtz and Commissioners Bean and Simpson
as to what theory of valuation he holds.

"We don't advance a theory; we advocate an amount," he responded admitting, however, under close questioning, that investment cost is closer to his views than any other theory. Under that theory the company contends that its property should be valued at $77,632,428.

Francis contended that the
reproduction cost theory, by which
United Railways on a basis
of prices of June 30, asks for a valuation of $100,722,813, first was advanced by miscellaneous and not
by utilities.

"If the costs are low, they want properties valued on that basis, but when prices are high they sing a different tune," Francis said.

Francis talked for two and a half hours, devoting the bulk of his time to discussing court decisions. He abstained from dealing with the history of United Railways and made few references to the concrete detail of the present case.

Caulfield's Argument.
Caulfield opened by declaring that the commission should allow nothing for "going value" or intangibles
in placing a valuation upon this property, for a car fare rate base.
He stated the purpose in this case.
The company asks for five million dollars each on "going value," cost of financing and promotion cost.

Caulfield took Francis to task for attempting to justify the $70,000,000 valuation, declaring it to be extravagant. He pointed out that the company, through refusing to espouse a valuation theory, electing rather to stand on an amount, was demanding that the commission, in declaring its decision, should explain upon what theories it had acted.

'Matinee Crowds, With Cars
Waiting,' at City Clinic

Persons Able to Pay Get Free Medical Attention, Says Municipal Hospital Report.

The close each day of the free city dispensary and clinic attached to the city hospital "reminds one of the city of a matinee with its waiting automobiles and well-dressed crowds," is the comment of William E. Rolfe, associate to the president of the Board of Public Service, in a voluntary report to the Director of Public Welfare on the conduct and needs of the public hospitals of the city.

Rolfe declares that observation of the people in the waiting rooms and of visitors to the free clinic and dispensary "leads me to believe that we are serving many persons who are able to pay for medical attention." He adds that apparently a large number of the plainly indigent

who were served when the dispensary was at Eleventh and Market streets do not reach the new quarterly.

He recommends therefore the assignment of competent investigators to determine the extent to which persons able to pay are being served in the hospital and clinic.

The survey made by Rolfe extended over a period of several months.
The lack of facilities which he records have been noted in the annual reports of those in charge of the various hospitals for many years and were the subject of exhaustive discussion during the bond campaign.
An item of $4,500,000 was passed to supply most of the needs.

Caulfield remarked, in opposition adoption of the reproduction
cost theory, based upon war-time prices.

He declared that prices after all of the great wars had gone up and down, up and then down again, that a valuation upon any such basis
would be unstable, and that anybody who would invest money on such a basis would be a fool.

Francis contended that the
reproduction cost theory, by which
United Railways on a basis
of prices of June 30, asks for a
valuation of $100,722,813, first was
advanced by miscellaneous and not
by utilities.

"If the costs are low, they want

SAYS WOMAN TOLD OF $40,000 LOSS IN DAY

Real Estate Man Testifies Mrs.
Helen K. Lippelt Asserted Husband Lost Sum in Stocks.

Shall the Gambler Rule?

On a high horse he rides. Bluff is his Coat of Mail, and thus shielded is a YELLOW HEART. His helmet is DECEIT—his spurs clink with TREACHERY and the hoof beats of his horse thunder DESTRUCTION

Shall good business flee? Shall it tremble with fear? Shall it be the loot of the "Speculator?" "Patient and long suffering"—glorious words for the soul to feed upon—spiritually we drink deep that we may strengthen our fortitude.

Look, though, at the spectacle of the "Money Changers" in the Temple as they fled from the sting of the whip-lash.

The woes of Job had no plague in their list as leperous as the parasites of the present day who fasten themselves upon the public and its business, to bleed for their profit any man or business which is not strong enough to throw them off.

"Survival of the fittest," however, is a good enough doctrine for the writer of this editorial, who is Clarence Saunders, President of PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES, Inc.—'tis the law of the universe—always has been—always will be.

By the Law we stand or we fall. The physical law for the physical, the spiritual law for the spirit, but, nevertheless, the "survival of the fittest" in both.

Escape? No! So it is—Work and Fight. Yet we hear the yelp of the Coward—the blowing nostrils of the "Bully"—the "Bluff"—he whines when he's licked, a yellow streak oozes from his heart. "Help!" he calls. "My adversary is 'thrice-armed' while I stand naked in the cold air of Publicity." "Give me a secret place where I may whisper propaganda—where the 'Daddy' of the Lie can be safe in the dark, and then I am brave."

"Goliath?" Yes, him I will kill with my sling and pebble—all imagination and vanity; for such a human specimen will brave nothing in the light of day—he will skulk and ferret—his bristles of courage are more like the cur who scents danger from afar.

All of this is a description of the Bogus Gambler, who tries every trick of the Gambler's Game, and then gets caught.

Four Aces are hard to beat, so if the Pot is big and the Gambler has lost because he was forced to use the cards of the same deck as his opponent, the Gambler, if he is a real man, will be satisfied, and if not, he will try to start a "rough house" on some manufactured pretext.

"Survival of the fittest," I say again, and I say again that none of this Stock am I going to sell back again to the "Speculator," even though he continues to "yelp."

This stock is going to be sold to the Public as Real Investors, at $55.00 per share, on either the partial payment plan or for cash, if desired.

Look up the pedigree of anybody who advises you not to buy this stock and you will find there is a "nigger in the woodpile" somewhere.

The profit in this stock is for the real investor. It is not for the "market manipulator"—and this profit is going to be big.

PIGGLY WIGGLY Stores are new in age, but very large in sales and in prospective earnings.

Food distribution is the basic business for real solidness, and as it is done by PIGGLY WIGGLY it is reduced to a science.

20,000 stockholders is the slogan in this campaign to have as partners the people in this business, instead of "Speculators" as partners.

Never have you had such an opportunity to be a partner in a business on the same basis as the President of this Company, and remember this—you will be a partner in a business that you can see every day, and a business that will reduce the cost of your food bill as well as make money for you.

Throughout the entire country you and your friends can go visiting in the principal cities, and there you will find some of your property in PIGGLY WIGGLY Stores, if you are a stockholder in this Company.

Most Companies are owned and controlled by the rich stockholders, but in PIGGLY WIGGLY the President of this Company wants the small stockholders in thousands to own and control this Company. Let us make PIGGLY WIGGLY independent of the big rich and have it the business of the people, where its earnings will be distributed to all alike, instead of big checks to a select few.

There is immensity in such a plan—a great power for good to all in such a purpose.

The people usually are allowed to participate in a big undertaking after somebody else has got the big profit. This time, in PIGGLY WIGGLY the big profit is for the people instead of the "Speculator."

Class "A" Common Stock

Of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc.

$55 Per Share!

$55 Per Share!

Partial Payment Plan or All Cash if Desired

This is a voting stock. Is preferred as to dividends. Is cumulative as to dividends—now paying $1.00 per share quarterly, which is more than 7% on the price of $55 per share. Dividend dates are March 1st, June 1st, September 1st and December 1st. This stock is traded in on both the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges. Is good collateral for a bank loan.

PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES, INC., has no bonded debt, no preferred stock ahead of this Class "A" Stock either in dividends or assets.

PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES now operating in 41 States and Canada—1241 stores now the total—located in 388 towns and cities.

PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES, INC., owns and operates 659 of these stores located in the principal towns and cities of the country.

It is not only the present 7% profit that the stockholder in PIGGLY WIGGLY will get for his money—there is bound to come that enhancement in the value of the stock that is due to follow the expansion and growth of this business, and with it will come, as a natural sequence, a larger dividend rate.

The sales of this Company for the last quarter of 1932 amounted to almost $11,000,000.00, and for December to practically $4,000,000.00, and for the present quarter are expected to reach $12,000,000.00—and with plans for expansion during the present year sales should exceed $60,000,000.00, and possibly will exceed $75,000,000.00.

The Net Earnings for the last quarter of 1932 exceeded $315,000.00, and it is expected that these figures will be exceeded for the first quarter of 1933. At this rate the quarterly dividend requirements of $1.00 per share will be earned by more than 50 per cent on our present 200,000 shares of outstanding Class "A" Common Stock, and with the expansion plans of this company that are to be acted upon during the present year these earnings should be materially larger.

This company also operates Variety Stores in Memphis, Tenn., Chicago, Ill., Norfolk, Va., Nashville, Tenn., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Terre Haute, Ind. These stores are extremely profitable and many more will be established during the present year.

It is desired that wide distribution be had on this block of stock, and that this may be accomplished, arrangements have been perfected so that this stock may be paid for on a partial payment plan upon the basis of $25.00 cash per share, and three notes at the rate of $10.00 per share, due June 1st, Sept. 1st and Dec. 1st. This means you will receive more than 7% on the entire investment and pay 6% on the balance as represented by notes of $30.00 per share. If desired cash may be paid in full for the stock.

OPPORTUNITY! It Knocks! It Knocks!

Do you hear? Do you listen? Do you understand? Do you wait? Do you act now?

Success is opportunity acted upon today—Failure is opportunity passed yesterday. Success is reading the future aright. Success has the brains of common sense. Success uses level-headed judgment. Success does not depend upon "Luck." Success does not hope—it acts.

Work today and work tomorrow—this with good judgment and sound sense is Success, and this is PIGGLY WIGGLY.

A million yesterdays are of no avail if TODAY we do not merit Success. A million tomorrows will bring us nothing unless "TODAY" is first our slogan.

Has a new Daniel appeared and lions eat him not? Has a new Joseph come that riddles may be made plain? Has a new Moses been born to point to a new Promised Land?

Why, then, asks the skeptical, can CLARENCE SAUNDERS, the President of a Big Corporation, be so generous to the public? How is it that he wants others to be his partners on a good profit basis to everybody?

It is not because he is a new Daniel or a new Joseph or a new Moses, nor because he is a short-sighted business man—it's because he's long-sighted in his views—because twenty thousand or more stockholders as partners in the business will mean in the future success of PIGGLY WIGGLY untold benefits that cannot be measured in mere dollars for IMMEDIATE profit.

"To do" or "not to do" is either our Victory slogan or the enslaving verdict of Failure.

The power of the multitude is vast—stupendous—overwhelming when aroused and directed toward one common purpose—for evil it can be if inspired by hate and prejudice—for good and noble deeds when the heart is right and the mind is clear—

"TOGETHER WE STAND—DIVIDED WE FALL"

Whose is the heart that does not know the truth of this? Whose is the reason that fails to see logic in these words?

You may purchase 1 share of Class "A" Common Stock of this company at $55.00 per share or 100 shares at the same price—one price to all, regardless of amount. The partial payment plan may be used, or all cash paid if preferred.

To get on the ground floor of any big proposition is the opportunity that comes to a few, and then only once in a lifetime—this is that opportunity for you.

DIVORCE OBTAINED BY MRS. ALMA BOSTWICK

Wife of Son of City Librarian
Also Granted Custody of Two Children.

Mrs. Alma Bostwick, 29 years old, of 5102 Waterman avenue, got a divorce in Circuit Judge Hogan's court today from Elmore Bostwick, 30, son of Arthur E. Bostwick, librarian of the city libraries. The ground was desertion.

The suit was not contested. Mrs. Bostwick asserting that she had not heard from her husband since he left her on Nov. 21, 1921, though she had learned indirectly that he was in the "northwestern part of the country."

Custody of two children, Elmore Jr., 4, and Fitzhugh, 3, was granted to Mrs. Bostwick. There was no application for alimony.

The Bostwicks were married May 14, 1917, the bride being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzhugh Simon. In November, 1921, Bostwick was taken to Barnes Hospital from his home, 112 North Newstead avenue, suffering from the effects of poisonous ingredients used in making gin which he said he had swallowed by mistake while making gin.

Mrs. Bostwick testified that Bostwick left her in the same month, leaving a note saying only that he was departing.

CITATION FOR DWIGHT F. DAVIS

Assistant War Secretary Awarded Distinguished Service Cross.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Two days before Dwight F. Davis took oath on Monday as Assistant Secretary of War and within an hour became Acting Secretary on the departure of Secretary Weeks for Florida, War Department machinery ground out final action on a citation that awarded Davis a distinguished service cross for gallantry in action in France.

Davis was first recommended for the decoration while in France. In recent months his case was reviewed by the decorations board and the proposed award approved before his name had been mentioned in connection with the assistant secretaryship. In the normal course of events the board's recommendation reached the desk of the Secretary of War on March 2. Weeks at once approved it.

ARGENTINE'S LEAGUE ISSUE

Withdrawal Not Implied by December Action, Minister Says.

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, March 8.—The retirement of the Argentine delegation from the Assembly of the League of Nations in December, 1920, did not imply the withdrawal of Argentina from the League itself, in the opinion of Foreign Minister Gallardo.

His views were submitted to the budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies Tuesday when he accepted the statement of Argentina's unpaid quota, the League's expenses, which now amounts to 2,232,000 gold francs.

Worked 47 Years for One Company.
W. J. Murphy, 57 years old, for 47 years an employee of the Laclede Gas Light Co., died of cerebral hemorrhage yesterday at his home, 3229 Ohio avenue. He became a lamp-lighter when he was 10 years old to help support his mother while he attended school, and in 17 years became distribution superintendent for the western half of the city. He is survived by his widow and two sisters. The funeral will be at 3:30 a. m. tomorrow from a chapel at 4671 Olive street to Calvary cemetery.

Sportswear for Spring

At the Country Club

—you are going to see some startlingly new fashions pretty soon—and of course you will want your own new Spring sports apparel to be just as distinctive as that of any of the others there! Have you seen our new silk Sports Frocks, hand-some flat crepes with bold Egyptian designs in gay colors printed on them—all sorts of conventionalized animals, people and plants unfamiliar to our Western eyes! These Frocks are most becomingly cut on straight lines, with just a suggestion of fullness or drapery at the hips. Persian printed cotton Frocks, too, are decidedly new, interesting and attractive, with large designs in darker colors on light grounds. Printed Roshanaras, new Frocks of velvety, thistleweed, jersey and combinations of crepe and Paisley display a wealth of charming styles and delightful bright colors $15.00 to $45.00

When You Ride

SKIES may be ever so blue, air Springlike and invigorating as can be, your horse perfectly in tune with the universe, rhythmically cantering along—and yet you are not getting the utmost enjoyment out of your ride unless you feel confident that your riding habit and all your accessories are correct to the most minute detail. For the equestrienne can be such a vision of smartness and aristocratic distinction—and you who come to Vandervoort's for your Riding Outfits are certain to be as smartly and correctly attired as your hearts can desire. In overblends, mannish mixtures, checks, tweeds and corduroys, severely plain or with neat touches of leather and bright buttons, we have a very complete display of new Riding Habits for women and misses, as well as all the accessories to match. $35.00 to $79.50

When You Golf

—several things are of importance: the way you drive, the way you swing your clubs—and the way you look! Now that Spring is infusing soft magic in the air, now that days are growing balmy and sunshine is growing bright, those Golfing Togs that you wore last season simply will not look as fresh and gay and nonchalant as good Golfing Togs should! A new Knicker Suit is what you really need, suitable for all kinds of weather, always smart-looking, always correct. Our new Knicker Suits for Spring are two and three piece, the latter with both skirts and knickers. They are made of tweeds, mixtures, overblends and checks of excellent quality wools, smartly cut on mannish lines, with convenient patch pockets on coat, skirt and knickers. In price they range from $19.75 to $59.75

When You Play Tennis

TENNIS will be fashionably played this Spring in jaunty cut Frocks of wool jersey, or of knitted wool, such as the girl in the illustration is wearing. Note the long loosely fitting blouse with surplice lines and belt fastening towards the left side. These universally becoming Dresses are in all shades, plain or fashionably striped. Priced from $16.50 to $25.00

When You Hike

YOU will be an ornament to the Spring landscape if you go a-hiking in one of our Knicker Suits to be worn with a tailored blouse on the order of brother's shirts! And you will feel so comfortable, so cool and so free! These smart little Suits are made of good quality black homespun, with effective white line checks. They cost only $45.00. Separate knickers of corduroy, khaki or tweed $2.95 to $7.95

New Millinery in the Spring Exposition and Sale

JUST arrived from Paris, where they were personally selected by our own representative, is a most bewitching collection of Parisian Hats. This ultra-fashionable millinery was inspired and created in the ateliers of the foremost French milliners, and the result is just what you would expect—that inimitable shaping with a view to becomingness and modishness which is so indubitably Parisian, so impossible to imitate.

AND the flowers on some of these Hats! For France has decreed that this is to be a season of Flower Trimmings. There are roses so natural in coloring, so exquisite in shading, so true in details of size and shape, that you might almost fancy them growing in some lovely rose garden! Other roses are cunningly fashioned of ribbon or silk, and gleam with touches of metallic thread.

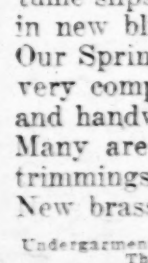

FEATHERS, too! Very handsome ostrich feathers and tips, gorgeous pheasant tails, coque feathers in the most exquisite colorings, fashioned into ornaments of unusual distinction. Soft, pliable Milan braids lead in popularity, closely seconded by the changeable taffetas. One of the latter is particularly noticeable, of strips with raveled edges showing the two colors, and metallic braid in between. For evening wear there are lovely transparent Hats of lace and horsehair braid. Lace drapery on Milan Hats is also much featured. Cinnamon brown, or "pain brule," as the French call it, black, beige, sand and Lanvin green are the favored colors.

Millinery Shop—Third Floor.

Undergarments and Corsets

LOVELIEST of all the new silk Undergarments for Spring are Marbled night-gowns, pajamas, step-ins and vests, showing marbled designs in exquisite shades of pink and blue. Crepe de chine undergarments in plain peachblow, orchid and flesh colors show fashionable bandana trimmings at the neck and elsewhere. Handsome real Irish, filet and Binche laces adorn other crepe de chine Undergarments as well as dainty handmade lingerie imported from France. New costume slips and matching bloomers, of peau de rose silk, are in new blue, toast, henna, orchid, gray, black and white.

INDICTMENT AGAINST BROKERS DISMISSED

Embezzlement Charge Involving Bowman and Cost Said to Have Been Adjusted Out of Court.

The indictment which charged D. Arthur Bowman of 4558 Washington boulevard and Herbert W. Cost of 5333A Cabanne avenue, jointly, with embezzlement, was dismissed on an order of nolle prosequi, in Judge Grimm's court this afternoon.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Johnston, in moving the dismissal, said that the claim against Bowman and Cost, on which the indictment was based, had been adjusted out of court, and that the prosecuting witness, Dr. John C. Bram, wished to drop the case.

Bowman and Cost, who formerly were partners in the brokerage business, acknowledged, at the time the indictment was voted last September, that Dr. Bram had a valid claim against them, but said they were trying to meet their obligation to him and that there was no basis for a criminal prosecution.

The sum named in the indictment was $266,78. Dr. Bram, superintendent of the St. Louis Baptist Hospital, entrusted some railroad bonds to Bowman & Cost for sale, and the amount named represented his estimate of the amount still due him after the partial settlement which the firm made.

INTEREST UNPAID, BONDHOLDER BUYS AND OPERATES CAR LINE

Wayne J. Stedlin Purchases St. Louis and Jennings Railway Property for $8100.

Unable to collect interest on $27,100 in mortgage bonds he holds of the "Jennings dinky" car line, Stedlin said today he expects to officially known as the St. Louis & Jennings Railway Co., Wayne J. Stedlin of 6956 Pershing avenue, a commission merchant, has bought the road for $8100 and is operating it. Stedlin said today he expects to continue the line in operation for the time being, but was not certain as to future plans. He bought it Monday at a sale conducted by James Hereford, special commissioner, at Clayton. The sale resulted from a suit filed last August to foreclose the mortgage of $100,000, held by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. and secured by 15-year bonds, dated March 1, 1922. It was some of these bonds Stedlin held.

The line, which runs from Robin and West Florissant avenues, in the city, to Jennings and Florissant roads, near Jennings, was built in 1911 to aid in opening up real estate subdivisions. David P. Leahy, real estate operator, who was president of the road, said when the foreclosure suit was filed that the competition of "jitneys" had kept the line from success.

115 GIRL'S HIGHEST FEVER MARK

By the Associated Press.
ESCANABA, Mich., March 8.—Dr. Harry D. Deforest, in charge of the case of Miss Evelyn Lyons, Escanaba girl, who has had a temperature of 114 for more than two weeks, yesterday stated that reports given out to newspapers that her temperature had reached 118 when the special thermometer was broken, were not authentic and were not given out by him.

The clinical thermometer used by him was broken, but that is not unusual through rapid expansion, he said.

"The highest absolute record that may be taken as authentic was reached when the temperature registered 115 by a special thermometer loaned me by the local Weather Bureau, the doctor said.

EMBEZZLING CASHIER ONCE HAD NEARLY MADE DEFICIT GOOD

Springfield (O.) Man Then Lost Again in Stock Deal and Took $600,000 From Bank.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, O., March 8.—The sale by A. H. Penfield, cashier of the Springfield National Bank, of more than $100,000 worth of Liberty bonds to the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh resulted in the discovery of the $600,000 shortage in the bank's books.

department of the local institution. The Pittsburgh bank notified local officials of the sale and an examination showed the deficit and was followed by Penfield's unsuccessful attempt at suicide.

Through an intimate friend of Penfield, who announced that he was acting as spokesman for him, details of his peculations, which extended over a 12-year period, became known. After losing money on his first venture, he attempted to replace it by stock dealings, only to fall further into debt. He continued, the informant said, and during the war had almost replaced the amounts taken, but later lost again and gradually took more and more from the bank. A warrant charging Penfield with embezzlement was issued at Cincinnati today.

C. & A. Ordered to Pay Interest.
CHICAGO, March 8.—Federal Judge Carpenter yesterday issued an order requiring the receivers of the Chicago & Alton Railroad Co. to pay $675,000 to the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank as interest at 3 per cent, due on a mortgage of $45,000,000 held by the bank.

BRITISH OFFICIAL REITERATES CHARGE AGAINST U. S. CONSUL

Replying to Defense of American, He Says Agent at Newcastle Promoted U. S. Interests.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, March 8.—The closing of the American Consulate at Newcastle-on-Tyne was under discussion in the House of Commons last night.

David Adams, labor member for Newcastle, complained that material damage had been done in trade in that area and said "that the arbitrary and sudden closing of the consulate was a high-handed act on the part of the Foreign Office against a great and friendly nation" and added that the United States Government had acted with most commendable toleration.

The present position was intolerable and he suggested that the matter should be submitted to an impartial tribunal.

Ronald McNell, Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, said it was incorrect to say that the Foreign Office had acted in a high handed or peremptory manner. It was an unfortunate circumstance that the persons who gave the evidence stipulated that their names should not be divulged, he stated, but the evidence left no doubt whatever and he believed the House would have no doubt that the Consul did use his position in order to promote, in opposition to British shipping interests, the interests of his own country.

The British Government made public today Foreign Secretary Curzon's note of Dec. 27 last to the American Government in regard to the dispute over the closing of the consulate at Newcastle. The note said that Great Britain had notified the United States that Consul Brooks and Vice Consul Slater were persona non grata a month before it withdrew their exequaturs.

SAYS WIFE SEWED ON MOURNING GARB AS HUSBAND LAY DYING

Prosecutor Makes Opening Statement in Case of Woman Charged With Murder.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 8.—Charges that Mrs. Tillie Klinek, on trial for a murder conspiracy to poison husbands and relatives, was by the death of her third husband, Frank Kuczyk, and stitched her mourning garments, were made by Assistant State's Attorney McLaughlin in his opening statement today. Evidence relating to Mrs. Nellie Kouluk, her cousin, was ordered stricken out by Judge Kavanaugh. Mrs. Kouluk, however, is under indictment for poisoning one of her husbands.

Mrs. Klinek also showed Kuczyk an advertisement of an undertaking firm showing coffin for $30, and told him he did not have long to live, the prosecutor said.

Mrs. Kouluk is alleged to have admitted giving Mrs. Klinek a small amount of poison before the latter's fourth husband, John Sturmer, became ill last summer. The indictment against Mrs. Kouluk charges her with the murder of her first husband, Wojciek Sturmer, in whose body, it is charged, the authorities found poison.

DR. WILLIAM S. LAWRENCE DIES

Former St. Louis Health Department Official Succumbs in New York.
NEW YORK, March 8.—Dr. William S. Lawrence, 52 years old, formerly assistant chief diagnostician of contagious diseases at the St. Louis Health Department, died at his home here last night of a cerebral hemorrhage. He left St. Louis about four years ago to enter Government immigration work. He was an examining physician for the New York Life Insurance Co.

During the war Dr. Lawrence was a Major in the sanitary corps of the army and was engaged in that work in various American camps. He was a graduate of St. Louis University, entering the St. Louis Health Department in 1906 and continuing with it until the beginning of the war. He first served as a dispensary surgeon. He is survived by his widow and a brother living in the East. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Don't let child stay
bilious, constipatedMOTHER, OPEN CHILD'S BOWELS
—GIVE "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Delicious Taste and it Never Fails to Empty Little Bowels

If your child is listless, full of cold, has colic, or if the stomach is sour, breath bad, tongue coated, a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" will quickly start liver and bowel action. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the constipation poison, sour bile and waste right out and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today may save a sick child tomorrow. It never cramps or overacts. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! you must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Newer Form of Iron
Is Red Blood Food

If your blood is thin, pale and watery, keeping you weak, nervous and run-down, you need rich, red blood with plenty of iron in it to give you strength, energy and endurance. It would surely astonish you to know how in two short weeks a little more iron in your blood would help renew the elasticity, the strength and energy of earlier days. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the good out of your food. Without iron, nothing you eat does you any good. Your food simply passes through you and your body is literally starving on three big meals a day.

This newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron is like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood is concentrated form. It stays in the blood from all druggists with a guarantee of money back.

ONE MAN KILLED, 3 REPORTED
MISSING IN PITTSBURG FIRE

Police and Firemen Searching Ruins of Building Where Meetings Were in Progress.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—Police and firemen today searched the ruins of the Shelton Hall Building for the bodies of three persons reported missing after a fire last night in which one man was killed. The fire was brought under control early this morning after it had burned for five hours with loss estimated at $100,000.

The cause of the blaze has not been determined. A religious meeting, attended mostly by women and girls, was in progress on the second floor, while a stonecutters' union was in session on the third floor, when an explosion rocked the building. The blast plunged the building in darkness, but an instant later it was enveloped in flames. Two other blasts followed in quick succession.

The hundred or more persons in the building became panic-stricken and when the first fire companies arrived a number had already jumped from the second and third story windows. Life nets were spread, into which many jumped.

Gustave Bickel, the only man known to have lost his life, jumped from a third-story window.

PARISHIONERS HERE TO SEARCH FOR MISSING ILLINOIS PASTOR

The Rev. J. A. Vranika, of Virden, Ill., Last Seen in City on Monday Afternoon.

Two automobile loads of his parishioners came to St. Louis from Virden, Ill., today, to search for the Rev. J. A. Vranika, pastor of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church there.

They stated he was last seen at Butler Brothers, Eighteenth and Olive streets, Monday afternoon. He left Virden, 20 miles south of Springfield, early Monday morning, to drive to St. Louis to purchase goods for a bazaar. His automobile, a Buick roadster with a winter top, bore the Illinois license number 420,032.

It is known that he called at the home of the Rev. W. F. Linek, 1204 Rutger street, and finding the priest away, left a note. He also made purchases at Rice-Six Dry Goods Co. during the day.

Father Vranika is described as a blonde, medium height, weight about 150 pounds. He wore clericals.

Mrs. Rebecca Meyers Left $101,927.

An inventory of the estate of Mrs. Rebecca Meyers, who died Feb. 19 at Hotel Jefferson, was filed yesterday. It shows property valued at $101,927.33. She left the bulk of her estate to several nieces and two children of her friend, Benjamin F. Jacoby.

HELD AS ROBBERY CONSPIRATORS

Stock Buyers Implicated in Holdup of Bank Messengers.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8.—William B. Liston and Michael Smith, stock buyers in the stock yards, were arrested here late yesterday in connection with the $97,000 holdup of Drivers' National Bank messengers Dec. 12. They were arraigned on a charge of first degree robbery in Circuit Court last night and committed in default of $25,000 bonds.

Smith and Liston, the police said, are alleged to have notified the men who participated in the robbery when a consignment of money would be carried to the bank. For this, the police charge, the buyers were to receive $10,000 each.

Girl and Escort Held Up.
Two armed men stepped from an automobile at Missouri and Park avenues at 1:20 a. m. today and held up Michael Ivanko of 1415 South Eighteenth street and Miss Emma Schneider of 2636 Park avenue, whom he was escorting home.

Miss Schneider tossed her purse to a lawn near by. From Ivanko she men took $29 and a watch. Miss Schneider recovered her purse later.

How to Rid the Arms
of Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)
A simple method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and again is more than one treatment required. Mix a stiff paste with some powdered talcum and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off. The skin and every hair has been rubbed off. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real results.

Sonnenfeld's Fashions Meet the Growing Demand for

PRINTS

Spring fashions have revived the colorful Egyptian motifs of 3000 years ago. World-old hieroglyphics, strange scenes of king's banqueting, unique characters that decorated Cleopatra's queenly robes, all appear this Spring to repeat their story in intricate and artistic designs on various Printed Silks.

Sonnenfeld's is well abreast of this new fashion vogue with a striking array of Persian, Pailey, Egyptian and other printed designs of Oriental inspiration. The styles incline toward simplicity to accentuate the queer motifs and the vivid medley of colors are especially attractive. The assemblage is widely varied with styles for afternoon, street and sport wear. Selections at many prices, ranging from

Be Excluded When Move
to Fire Minister Fails.

Nine members of the Franklin Park Baptist Church, Bond avenue and Sixth street, East St. Louis, who voted at a church meeting last night for the resignation of their pastor, the Rev. Grover Cleveland Cross, asked to be excluded from the church when the vote failed to carry. Later the pastor was given majority support on the proposal of his sympathizers to exclude from the church Ira Perry, Sunday School superintendent and deacon; Luther Shelby, a teacher in the Sunday school; and Henry Ballard, a deacon. These three were voted out because they engaged in a fight with the Rev. Mr. Cross before service last Sunday. They are to be tried tomorrow morning before Justice of the Peace Kane in East St. Louis on peace disturbance charges pressed by the pastor.

The vote to demand the pastor's resignation was proposed by John McCloskey shortly after the meeting came to order. Thirty of the 50 persons present voted in favor of his retention. Then the question of excluding the belligerent churchmen came up. The vote on this was 22 to 9 in favor of their exclusion.

Whereupon McCloskey, Mrs. Henry Ballard, Mrs. Bertha May, Mr. and Mrs. William Luck and son Richard, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lane and daughter Gretchen asked to be excluded.

There was some heated talk during the meeting, but no disorder. Two policemen had been assigned to watch. Only about 40 of those in attendance were members. The church claims a total membership of 175.

MRS. RUSSELL DENIES HAIRPINS FOUND IN MAN'S ROOM ARE HERS

Defendant in Sensational London Divorce Case Says She Doesn't Wear Them.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, March 8.—Mrs. John Hugo Russell, daughter-in-law of Lord Russell, who is being sued for divorce, denied on the witness stand today ownership of hairpins found in the bedroom of Edgar J. Mayer, the correspondent.

"I do not wear hairpins for my hair is bobbed," said Mrs. Russell.

Mayer testified of his friendship for the young woman. He said he became acquainted with Mrs. Russell in a railway dining car. He said he formerly lived in New York, where he was connected with the Stock Exchange.

Mayer denied that he had misappropriated himself with Mrs. Russell. He explained the presence of women's hairpins in his bachelor apartment by saying that various women visited him and that they were accustomed to bathe and dress in his home.

The case has attracted unusual interest from the fact that the Hon. John Hugo Russell, the plaintiff, denied he was the father of his wife's child and insisted that its countenance be compared with that of the correspondent before the jury.

NONSTOP FOX TROT RECORD OF 15 HRS. 25 MIN. IN SCOTLAND

Couple Wears Out Several Sets of Musicians in Performing Tact
at Ayr.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 8.—Scotland, cradle of the Highland fife, has gone so wild over fox trotting that couples are losing sleep and going without eating in numerous efforts to establish long distance records.

Cliff Houghton and Miss Edie Cole wore out several sets of musicians during last night in a continuous trot of 15 hours 25 minutes at Ayr, extending the nonstop record by 45 minutes.

WOMAN FOUND WITH THROAT CUT

Wife of Man Held on Liquor Charge
Said to Have Been Despondent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 8.—Mrs. Alice Lehr, 48 years old, wife of J. S. Lehr, veterinarian, who is held in the city jail on Federal charges of making and selling whiskey and having possession of a still, was found dead in the basement of their home at 247 South Frederick street today. Her throat had been cut. A butcher knife was at her side. All the doors were locked, a policeman gaining entrance through a basement window.

Lehr, in jail, said his wife appeared despondent when she visited him Wednesday.

BOURKE COCKRAN WON FAME BY HIS

1884 was sent to the Democratic National convention at Chicago, to speak for Tammany against Cleveland.

Spoke During Thunderstorm.
That speech brought him into national prominence, and in 1887 he was elected to Congress. In 1892 Cockran again spoke against Cleveland at the national convention. It was a spectacular effort. He began to speak at 2 a. m. in the midst of a violent thunderstorm, after an exhausting day's session. In addition to the crashes of thunder he had to contend with the whistles of locomotives just outside the building, and with the hoots and jeers of the Cleveland forces inside as well as the weariness of even friendly delegates. With his great voice and physique he succeeded in dominating the din until his phrases could make themselves felt, and when he was through he was given an ovation.

But Cleveland was nominated.

Cockran, however, was now the recognized exponent of fiery and persuasive eloquence. His name had become the synonym for audacious and arresting oratory. He was known as Tammany's Mark Anthony.

The dramatic element cropped out again as his political career continued. He was a wheel-horse in Tammany, but in 1896 he became an advocate of the gold standard, and after a fight in the national convention against the free silver plank in the Democratic platform, left the party and campaigned for McKinley, against Bryan. In 1900, free silver having been shelved and imperialism being the issue, Cockran was back in the Democratic party, and this time campaigning against Bryan.

In 1920, at the Democratic national convention in San Francisco, he crossed swords with the old Com-mo-der for the last time. Bryan put the effort of his life into a plea for a prohibition plank. Cockran threw all his old magnetism and eloquence into a plea for a plank for light wine and beer. The convention gave each an ovation—and turned both down.

Married Three Times.

Cockran was married three times. His first marriage, when a young man, ended sadly with the death of his first child in infancy, and his mother soon afterward. She was a sister of the Rev. Father Jackson of St. Ann's Church, East Twelfth street. In 1888 he married Rhoda E. Mack, daughter of John Mack, a wealthy retired merchant. Her mother was a prominent socialist. Cockran and his wife built a beautiful home at Sandy Point, where they entertained largely, and he led the life of a country gentleman in the intervals between his political and legal activities. He was a book lover, both as reader and bibliophile, and had a fine library. He also loved horses and dogs, and a picturesque angle of his tastes was that he was a connoisseur and collector of china.

His wife died in 1895. In 1906 he married Miss Annie Ide, daughter of Henry Ide of New York, former Governor-General of the Philippine Islands. Miss Ide was the little girl to whom Robert Louis Stevenson made the famous dedication of his birthday, because her own came on Christmas day.

One of the real passions of Bourke Cockran's life was Ireland. He was an ardent Sinn Feiner, and gave much time and effort to advance the cause of Irish freedom. He was state chairman of the drive to sell $10,000,000 of Irish republican bonds. When the treaty was concluded, however, he became an advocate of the Free State.

Admirer of Al Smith.

Another passion was Al Smith. He nominated Smith for the presidency at the San Francisco convention in 1920. In a speech that stirred his hearers as effectively as did the "Sioux" speech of the Philippine Islands, he led the demonstration that followed. He also nominated Smith for the governorship at Syracuse, and he told friends his great ambition was to nominate him for the presidency again in 1924. When he died, he was in Congress the day he died as he was in 1887, when he first went there. His shaggy head was white, but his broad shoulders, sturdy frame and short, thick neck still gave him the look of irrepressible vitality, and his great voice boomed his protest against easier financing facilities for farmers, which proved to be his farewell message as magnificently as ever.

After the session he chatted with friends, who told him he was looking young for a man of 69. He laughed like a hurricane in a turn.

"I feel more like 60 than 70," he said, "but I'm getting too old to practice law, so I am going to stay in the House till I die."

PART TWO.

LIGHT VOTE AT TOMORROW'S CITY PRIMARY FORECAST

Candidates for Presidency of the Board of Aldermen and Fourteen Members to Be Chosen.

CHIEF INTEREST IN NEUN-REMMERS RACE

Few Meetings Held in Various Wards, Most of Those Attending Being Political Workers.

Notice to Election Judges and Clerks

THE newspapers of this city have arranged, as usual, to compile the returns of the election at the rotunda of the City Hall, so the public will be furnished with the result without waiting for the official count. The police officers stationed at all the polling places have been supplied with blanks, on which the returns should be copied as soon as they are completed. These blanks should be signed by the judges and turned over to the police officers for prompt delivery. JOHN B. EDWARDS, Chairman Board of Election Commissioners.

Candidates for president of the Board of Aldermen and for members of the board from the even numbered wards will be nominated tomorrow at the municipal primary. Polling places in the 518 precincts of the city will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. Location of the polling places is generally the same as the special bond issue election at the last November election. Although three parties—the Republican, Democratic and American Labor—have tickets in the field there are no contests for the nomination on the latter two. Chief interest among politicians centers on the race for the Republican nomination for president of the board and the race for the aldermanic nomination in the Twentieth, Twenty-fourth and Twelfth wards.

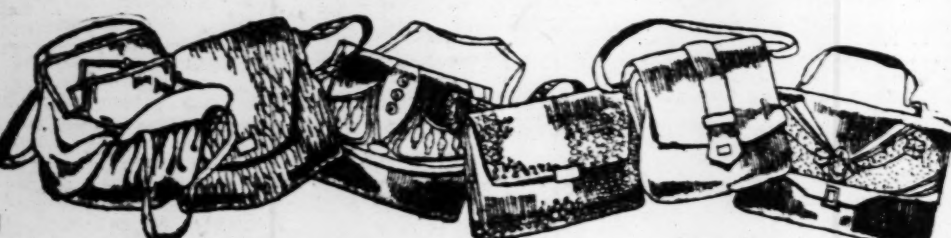

Small Attendance at Meetings. There has been no indication of general interest in the primary by the public. The few meetings held in various wards have had small attendance and most of those present were political workers. It has been predicted that the vote will be light.

The total registration at present is 257,292. That, however, includes voters in all parties. As the Democratic and American Labor tickets have no opposition, few of the followers are expected to vote. The Republican vote is expected to be principally an organization vote. The last off-year aldermanic election was in 1915, when the Republicans cast about 30,000 votes and the Democrats about 5400. The Republicans then had lively contests in several wards, although Louis Alois was unopposed for the nomination for the presidency of the board. The Democrats had several contests. The total registration was 144,602, women voters 60,000. The City Hall today predicted that the total vote of a parties tomorrow would be about 60,000.

The opposing candidates for the Republican nomination for president of the Board of Aldermen are Walter J. G. Neun, chairman of the Republican City Central Committee and Oliver T. Remmers, attorney for Andrew Busch, Inc. The name Edward L. Kuba, First Ward Alderman, will appear on the ballots as candidate for the same nomination but Kuba has announced that he has ceased to be an active candidate and requested his friends to support Neun.

Claims of Neun's Friends. Neun's friends claim he is supported by 27 of the 28 members of the Republican City Central Committee. They say that Joseph Metzler of the Twelfth Ward, controlled by City Collector Edmund Koehn, is backing Remmers, is the only committeeman against Neun. The Remmers followers admit majority of the City Committee is against Remmers, but refuse to concede Neun 27 members. They do not, however, specify which on beside Metzler they believe will support Neun.

Solid support for Remmers in the Twelfth Ward is not assured. Sample ballots issued by the examination leave the choice open between Remmers and Neun. It was said that the ballots issued by Remmers' name scratched. It is said the Twelfth Ward organization left the choice between Remmers and Neun open to prevent any further action by Charles A. Neumann, organization candidate for re-election from the Twelfth, in other wards in the city. Neun's campaign has rested on the committee support. He has done nothing to seek to induce would also entail the tearing down of a water pumping station. "The alteration proposed will eliminate that and will carry the canal through vacant lots and around the pumping station. I know we will save at least $100,000 by placing a slight bend in the canal.

Would Refer It to Lawyers. "But I am opposed to the bond issue, and I move that it be referred to lawyers for a legal opinion as to its constitutionality."

"If you have already arrived at an opinion why put the board to the expense of purchasing a legal opinion," asked Kramer. "Let the purchasers of the bonds look after that."

Another phase of the project was encountered when A. V. Willis of A. V. Mills & Sons, contractors digging the canal, requested the board to continue its contract with his firm as a corporation instead of a partnership.

"This thing has been hanging fire so long," said Willis, "that I am afraid that in the event of the death of one of the partners we may become involved in litigation over this thing. Whereas, operating as a corporation we would not become so involved. No telling when this job will wind up."

Willis' request was referred to the board's legal department, but not before Rothe had expressed himself once more on the subject of the work on the canal.

"Excavating Too Rapidly." "The excavation is moving forward too rapidly to suit me," he said. "Why, then, did you dig until they came to a right of way that the board has not yet acquired and then they jump the right of way and go on digging again? The result is that the canal, in its present stage, is a series of cesspools. Why don't the excavators slow up a bit?"

Rothe said he was under contract to finish their work in a certain length of time, said Kramer, "and if they are halted there is the possibility of their filing damage suit against the board for their loss of time."

"Oh, I'm against the whole project, anyway," said Rothe. "I never did see what good the canal would do the drainage district."

"Neither did I," said Maize. The board adjourned to meet this afternoon when the question of the proposed bond issue will be taken up again.

"CAP-SHEAF"

THE WHOLE-WHEAT BREAD

You will be disappointed with a substitute for "CAP-SHEAF," the original and genuine whole-wheat bread.

There's only one "CAP-SHEAF." No other loaf of bread embodies its delicious flavor, nutrition or wholesomeness.

We grind every grain of wheat on the premises. "CAP-SHEAF" is baked at the mill in coke-heated ovens. We supervise every step from the grain to the finished loaf, to insure its perfection.

Ask your grocer—he can supply you. CAP-SHEAF BREAD CO., Millers and Bakers, 1112-18 N. King's highway, St. Louis, Mo.

LIGHTING FIXTURES

Your first idea in selecting your lighting fixtures should be suitability.

All our lighting fixtures are hung in a series of many small rooms, the size of those in the average home. This enables you to better judge whether or not the proportions are correct for the space you have, and also the color effects.

We invite you to view the many new and beautiful chandeliers we are showing at this time in cream and dainty colorings, which are especially popular for bedrooms.

American Ships Seize Harbors

By HENDRIK VAN LOON

Author of "The Story of Mankind"

(Copyright, 1923.)

ALTHOUGH yesterday we talked about the signing of the peace treaty, we shall have to go back for a moment to the first of the year of the war and see what happened to the third army, which was to march west from Fort Leavenworth and invade New Mexico and California.

The Commander in Chief of this division was Col. Stephen W. Kearny. With 1800 men, he headed for Santa Fe in June, 1846, only a month after the outbreak of the war. He did not have to fight any battles with the Mexicans on the way, but his little army had a terrific battle with heat and thirst before they had crossed the burning, arid sands of the desert, and reached their goal.

The Mexicans had fled at their approach, as Col. Kearny raised the American flag over the city and established a temporary government. Santa Fe, or to give it its full name, Villa Real de Santa Fe de San Francisco, is, next to St. Augustine, Fla., the oldest city in the United States, having been founded upon the site of an Indian village about the year 1605. It grew quickly, and by 1630 boasted 1000 inhabitants, of which one-quarter were Spaniards and the remainder Indians and half-breeds.

After a month's rest in this interesting old town, Kearny started for San Diego, Cal. Before he had gone very far he met Kit Carson, the famous guide, coming to tell him that California was already in American hands. The tale Carson had to tell was as follows:

John Charles Fremont, a professional explorer and engineer, had been sent by the United States Government to California, presumably to explore the coast line, but in reality to join forces with the American settlers there and seize the country. The Mexicans, suspecting his ulterior motive, had ordered him and his little band of 62 men out of the country, but instead of obeying, Fremont pitched his camp upon a mountain near Monterey and raised the American flag over it.

The American Consul at Monterey, Thomas Larkin, had already received instructions from Washington to do all he could to persuade California to secede from New Mexico.

About a month later a squadron of the American navy appeared in Monterey harbor, and its commander, Commodore John Drake Sloat, seized the city, which offered no resistance, raised the American flag over it and proclaimed California a part of the United States.

The American navy had received instructions to cruise up and down the coast, and as soon as hostilities should have commenced along the Rio Grande, to seize the harbors. These instructions were carried out to the letter, San Francisco and Los Angeles being taken, as well as Monterey.

The American settlers rose joyfully in revolt against the Mexican garrisons, and soon the Stars and Stripes were waving from all the forts.

When Col. Kearny had heard Kit Carson's story, he sent most of his men back to New Mexico, and went on with only 100 soldiers. When he arrived at San Diego, in December, 1846, there was little left for him to do. In less than a year from the outbreak of the war, our objective, California, was in our hands.

Col. Kearny then set up a provisional government, with military support, and there was an end to lazy, happy, contented old California.

SAYS 30 PER CENT OF MOTHERS RECEIVE NO MEDICAL ATTENTION

Physician Declares Need For Public Health Officers Is Greater Than Supply.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 8.—Thirty per cent of the women who become mothers in the United States do so without medical attention. Dr. Watson S. Rankin, secretary of the North Carolina State Board of Health, declared yesterday in discussing the need of public health officers at the closing session of the National Public Health Conference of the American Medical Association. Dr. Rankin said the need for health officers was five times as great as the supply. Communicable diseases among farm children are far more prevalent than among their city-bred cousins. Dr. Victor C. Vaughn of Chicago told the conference. Preventable diseases, he said, prevail in a ratio of nearly 10 to one in rural schools, as compared with schools in Philadelphia, New York and Pittsburgh.

Gas in the Stomach
Is DangerousRecommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.Gas and wind in the stomach, accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."Acid stomachs are dangerous because they much and irritate the delicate lining
of the stomach, often leading to gastritis
and accompanied by serious stomach ulcers.
Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal function of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary laxative pills which have no purging effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from your druggist a few boxes of Magnesia. Magnesia is a safe and effective remedy. It is a natural mineral salt found in a pure state in the earth.
It is a powerful and effective remedy for acid stomachs, indigestion, heartburn, flatulence, constipation, and all the troubles of the stomach and bowels. It is used by thousands of people who suffer from these troubles with no more fear of indigestion.

Baggy Cheeks and Chin
Mar Looks—The RemedyEvery woman, whether in business or in her own home, should keep her face free from blemishes and sagging muscles. It is easy to have a youthful, looking face without wrinkles or blemishes, by using a very simple "Facial" two or three times a week. Get a package of powdered talcum in a paper or tin of talcum. Rub it over your face and neck. Rub it over your face and neck. Rub it over your face and neck.
This will form a clean, transparent film which will tighten muscles of face
and draw out those around mouth, nose and eyes. Leave mask on 15 to 30 minutes and remove with warm water. This is absolutely wonderful for reducing sagging around cheeks and chin, giving the natural glow and firm outlines of a youthful face. This treatment is not expensive, a box lasting many weeks.CHARGES OPERATION OF CEMENT

VICTORY IN HOUSE FOR THE STATE'S COLLEGES

Appropriation of $3,531,548 for University Stands in Spite of Whitaker's Fight.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Representative Whitaker of Hickory County and the opponents of higher education in the House suffered a decisive defeat late yesterday afternoon in their efforts to prevent adequate appropriations for the State University. By a vote of 92 to 42,
the House sustained the Appropriations Committee in allotting to the university a total of $3,531,548.

Whitaker made his fight to line up House members against the university by an appeal for the "little red schoolhouse," and for additional funds for the country schools, notwithstanding that the House several weeks ago determined the amount which should go from State revenues for country schools.

Unusual Resolution Offered.
The only item on which Whitaker directed his fight was the $1,950,000 for the support and maintenance of the university, the fund from which all teachers' salaries are paid, and which is $750,000 in excess of the amount appropriated two years ago for that purpose. Whitaker offered a resolution to the effect that the appropriation should be no larger than it was two years ago. The resolution was an unusual procedure and there was a question that it was in order,
but Speaker Hunter, realizing that the fight might as well be on that question as on any other, permitted its consideration.

Whitaker contended that the appropriation for State aid for public schools, the grade and high schools,
was only one-third of the total State revenue. He said that the tax reduction measures advocated by the Democratic Senate caucus would, if passed, cause the grade and high schools to lose $2,000,000 in the two-year period, and that this money
should be taken from the university and not from the grade schools.
Other speakers demonstrated that the common schools could not possibly get more than $600,000 less than they received from the State
two years ago.

"Every city newspaper," he said
in denouncing the university, "has been subsidized by the university for its influence has been secured for big appropriations for the university. They have had nothing to say for the common schools. You can't cite a single editorial pleading with us to make larger appropriations for the common schools."

"The State university is the rich man's school. The common school is the school of the poor. Ninety per cent of the enrollment of the university comes from the 10 per cent richest families of the State.
The university faculty is twice as large in numbers as is necessary for the best advantage of the student body."

Mrs. Smith Takes Issue With Him.
Mrs. Smith, Representative from St. Louis County, interrupted Whitaker and took sharp issue with him
on his statement that 90 per cent of the students were from wealthy families.

"You know, or you ought to know," she said, "that 50 per cent of the students of the university are boys and girls who are working their way through school, and working because they have to work to get an education."

The appropriation was debated for three hours, members from all over the State joining in defense of the university. Representative
Roos of St. Louis and Heege of St.
Louis County opposed Whitaker.

When the roll was called, the pro-ponderance of votes against Whitaker was realized. All the St. Louis members who were present voted against his resolution. The bill, which shortly afterward was ordered engrossed, carries total appropriations of $6,547,000, divided as follows:

Kirkville Teachers' College, $408,
000; Warrensburg Teachers' College,
$384,176; Cape Girardeau Teachers' College, $372,784; Springfield Teachers' College, $680,000; Marquette
Teachers' College, $460,000; Rolla
School of Mines, $536,000; Lincoln University, $174,730; State university, $3,531,548.

Another bill carrying a total of $1,545,120 for the State eleemosynary institutions also was engrossed.

Heavy Movement to Chicago Held to Be Sign Spring Is Near.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 8.—While weather forecasters point out the fallacy of predicting the coming of spring by the "lion and lamb" method, market men today advance what they term an unfailing indication of the season's nearness: the arrival of heavy shipments of stored apples on the markets. Western States have sent 12,620 carloads of apples to markets the past week, the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics said today, more than any time since the middle of January.
Eastern sections shipped 725 cars of barreled stock, 640 cars of which came from New York.

VARIETY in foods is essential, of course, but in providing variety do not overlook the importance of nourishment.

Crisp, delicious Grape-Nuts is a highly nourishing cereal food in unusually compact form. It supplies the rich nutrition of wheat and malted barley, including the mineral elements of these splendid grains, without which health and strength cannot be maintained.

Grape-Nuts, with good milk, is a complete food. Economical, too, because a moderate amount provides unusual nourishment.

INVENTORY SHOWS BURGLARS TOOK WEAPONS FROM STORE

Youth Accused of Hardware Store
Robbery After Policeman's Identification.

An inventory of the stock of the Witte Hardware Co., 704 North Third street, which was looted by burglars Sunday, has disclosed that revolvers, pistols, rifles, shotguns, cartridges and flashlights all valued at $631, were stolen.

Patrolman Henry Kohne, who discovered the burglary while trying doors on his beat, and whose appearance prevented the burglars from hauling away loot valued at more than $3000 which they had placed in sacks, has identified Roy Tipton, 20 years old, of 822 Hickory street,
as the man he saw inside the store,
and an information charging Tipton
with burglary has been issued.

As has been told, the burglars got into the store by chiseling a hole 2
by 2 feet in diameter in the wall separating the store from an adjoining building, which they had entered by way of a fire escape. Patrolman Kohne, in trying the front door, observed a man in shirt sleeves behind a counter and waved to him. When the man did not respond the patrolman suspected he was a burglar and went to the rear of the store. In the meantime the burglar escaped.
The ownership of an automobile that had been seen in the neighborhood during the afternoon was traced to Tipton.

HIS WILDEST TRIP AT SEA

Captain Had Jungle Beasts, Snakes
and Scenic Passengers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 8.—Of the 600 passengers who arrived yesterday on the steamship Bayern, 10 days late from Hamburg, only a very few enjoyed the trip. Four of them were Polar bears, in cages
lashed to the exposed boat deck,
who growled in delight as mountainous waves of icy water broke over them all through the stormy trip. Below decks the angry roars of several Bengal tigers greeted the same waves. As did the screeching and chattering of a cage of monkeys.

The seasick passengers had the pleasant thought that the heavy seas might at any moment smash
a certain cage in the hold and release a consignment of snakes, the largest a python 15 feet long. According to Capt. Oscar Schwannberger, it was the wildest trip of his career. For two days the ship drove through drift ice eight feet deep.

MRS. JACK LONDON ON TOUR

Makes Trip From San Francisco to England in Freight.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, Feb. 20.—After crossing
from San Francisco to England on a freight steamship, as the only passenger, Mrs. London, the widow of Jack London, the well-known American writer, left last week for a long holiday on the Continent.

Mrs. London, who is as keen on adventure as was her famous husband, is planning to enjoy some hunting at Pau, where her friends have been training a half-breed hunter for her. During her six week's voyage to England she finished a new book on Hawaii. It will contain three unpublished articles
by her late husband, which were almost the last things he wrote.

Announced.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 8.—Associate of Dr. A. B. Luckhardt, associate professor of physiology of the University of Chicago, has just announced that Dr. Luckhardt has produced an anaesthetic that they consider superior to anything heretofore known to science.

Dr. Luckhardt was assisted in his experiment by J. P. Carter, and the new anaesthetic is said to utilize the properties of ethylene gas which, in purified form associates say has many advantages over nitrous acid,
commonly known as laughing gas.

SENTENCE OF 500 DAYS AT HOME

Woman, Convicted Bootlegger, Told to Care for Four Little Children.

By the Associated Press.
FRESNO, Cal., March 8.—Mrs.
Elizabeth Espinola, convicted of bootlegging on her own confession, was sentenced to spend 500 days in her own home, caring for her four little children, by Police Judge Crichton yesterday.

The woman first was fined $500,
the Court then discovering that she could not pay it. The fine was remitted and the woman placed in her own custody in her own home,
to work out the fine at the rate of $1 a day.

ASH IN CART IGNITES CLOTHING

Thomas Sullivan, 51 years old, of 4139 Hull place, was seriously burned
on the back and thighs last night when the seat of an ash wagon he was driving caught fire from cinders smoldering in the load.

Sullivan was driving past Grand boulevard and St. Louis avenue when he discovered his clothing afire and leaped from the wagon. A policeman helped put out the blaze and took Sullivan to the city hospital.
The policeman put out the fire on the wagon with buckets of water.
Sullivan had loaded his wagon a few minutes before at a building on Grand boulevard.

Another Record in Freight Movement
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Freight traffic on railroads, according to reports compiled by the car service of the American Railway Association, is breaking all previous records for this season of the year. During the week ending Feb. 24, $30,223 cars were loaded with revenue freight, or 101, 298 cars more than the total loaded

during the same week last year and 171,581 cars in excess of the loading

for the corresponding week of 1921.
This was also 12,445 cars in excess of the number loaded during the previous week of this year.

YOUR GATEWAY OF HEALTH

THEY are hammering away, right now!

At the very moment you are reading this, the gateway of your health is being attacked by an army of bacteria.

The army of dangerous, disease-bearing bacteria in your mouth is always there by the million.

They may be influenza, diphtheria or pneumonia bacteria. Or they may be the ever-present bacteria causing decay of the teeth.

Whatever the kind or time, they are industriously
at work to undermine your health—to cut short your life, if they find conditions unusually favorable.

Kolynos Controls Mouth Bacteria

Control these bacteria and minimize their activity
while they are yet in your mouth, by the daily use of Kolynos Dental Cream. Don't allow them to pass down to your lungs, or into your stomach, where they seek opportunity to make their vicious attack!

Then there is the army of mouth bacteria, whose presence is largely responsible for tooth decay—not so immediately dangerous, but very dangerous nevertheless —always endeavoring to break down the enamel of your teeth and disable you in that way.

They are like the sappers and miners of modern warfare, going about their work deliberately but surely.

When one simple, delightful daily habit will do so much towards protecting your general health, as well as insuring and beautifying your teeth,
why hesitate?

We have on file in our New Haven laboratories personal applications from over 47,000 American Dentists and 74,000 American Physicians for Kolynos Dental Cream, to distribute among their patients.

Kolynos Means Tooth Protection

Protect the gateway of your health by daily destroying this horde of invaders. Preserve the fine lustre of your teeth, the healthy, pink glow of your gums, the proper functioning of your tonsils and throat.

You accomplish all this by the delightful daily habit of using Kolynos Dental Cream. Millions of people in 77 countries have recognized its great extra value, beyond that of any other dentifrice.

The Kansas City Southern Railway Company

New York City, February 20, 1923.

Statement by the executive committee in opposition to the proposed plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the consolidation of railroads, especially as it affects the Southwestern region and the Kansas City Southern Railway Company.

L. F. LOREE, Chairman.

- There are only 89 separate Class I railroad systems, instead of 188, as ordinarily stated.
- The tentative plan for further consolidations will not accomplish its avowed object of supporting the weak lines, and producing systems of equal strength and importance, and uniform earnings.
- It is questionable whether the overhead expense would be reduced by the proposed consolidations, and, in any event the "saving" would be insignificant.
- There is nothing urged in support of consolidation that the general expenses of supervision are thereby greatly reduced, and consequent economies effected. It is true that in the group of systems of more than 10,000 miles, the salaries of general officers, clerks and attendants, absorb no more than 1.83 per cent of the gross operating revenues, while these expenses in the other groups are somewhat larger. As shown in Exhibit "A" (which the I. C. C.) were all the lines to effect such an economy, there would be a gross saving of $8,960,709, annually. But certainly no such sum, so insignificant in its relation to the five and one-half millions of gross income, would justify the changes contemplated, did they entail no more serious consequences than a rearrangement of control. But a study of the figures in Exhibit "A" will show that this apparent economy is a mere superficial coincidence. The difference in this item of expense of 1.41 per cent in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, the lowest, and of 2.26 per cent in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, the highest of the systems operating over 10,000 miles, is 85 per cent; and is itself greater than the difference between the average of the systems of over 10,000 miles, 1.83 per cent, and the average of the systems of less than 10,000 miles, 2.38 per cent, which is more than 55 per cent. A study of this item in all the lines, and the utterly discredits the assumption that mere size will insure economy. There are two lines in the group of systems having from 1000 to 2500 miles of lines, in which this item of expense is the same as the item of expense in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, and there are two lines among those of less than 1000 miles, in which this item of expense is the same as the item of expense in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway.
- The number of Class I railroads in the United States, as customarily reported, is 188, but if we group together those actually parts of systems and so operated, there were on December 31, 1921, no more than 109 such roads, as shown on Exhibit "A." If, further, we make reduction for such consolidations as subsequent purchases indicate: for lines separately shown, but jointly owned by larger systems and for lines separately shown, but which may be grouped because of control by large personal or corporate investors the number becomes no more than 89. The lines included in this last reduction are indicated in Exhibit "A" by a dagger (†). (Exhibit "A" on file in Washington with I. C. C.) We submit that quite a different mental impression is created if we consider the actual 89 separate properties rather than the 188 inaccurately spoken of.
- Some principles which we believe should govern in any consolidation of railroads in the Southwestern Region.
- There is a matter of profound regret that, in a scheme so gigantic in its size, so revolutionary in its method, containing possibilities of so great losses and even disaster; the commission has not seen fit to lay down some general principles that would guide the judgment of those whose interests are affected, in a study of the problem. In its effect on the proposed traffic regions, and upon the individual carriers.
- Let us first say very frankly that we believe, as we urged upon the commission in our argument in the hearings in June, 1920, that a grain error was committed in setting off the Southwest as a separate freight rate region, that is to say "that portion of the State of Missouri south of the Missouri River, the States of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and the part of Louisiana lying west of the Mississippi River." This territory, containing about 475,000 square miles, an area about the size of France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, and Ireland, and inhabited by about 12,000,000 people, measuring roughly 800 miles north and south from the Rio Grande River to the Kansas line, and 700 miles east and west from the Mississippi River to the foothills of the Rocky Mountain range, constitutes a vast empire. These Southwestern lines really constitute a distinct group, with its own peculiar needs. It was, in our opinion, a fundamental error for the Interstate Commerce Commission to attach them to the lines in the Northwestern group, seeking to make them subordinate to those lines, and dependent upon them and, upon the Chicago & North Western, St. Paul and Omaha, when they are in fact quite capable of self-support and development, and should be at the service, and seeking to promote the interest of their particular territory and its people. The Kansas City, St. Louis, Memphis, New Orleans, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and El Paso. It is as naturally, and for much the same reasons, distinguished from the Northwestern region as is the Southern classification territory distinguished from the Eastern traffic region. The fact is that the products of these two sections are largely similar: the line included therein serve the cotton-producing territory of the country, and their rate structures are upon approximately the same basis.
- The roads in the Southwestern Region, excluding 148.20 miles of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway, 232.33 miles of the St. Louis San Francisco Railway, and 2,618.67 miles of the Missouri Pacific Railway, outside the region, are including 860.22 miles of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, and 2,520.61 miles of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, lying within the region, and prorating the earnings upon those parts of systems give the following features:

Average operated (1919)	15,116
Miles	44,841
Property Investment	$1,516,655,440
6 per cent on property	$90,999,324
Investment	$1,586,654,764
(b) An initial error, if paralleled, leads on to the commission of others, and the effect of this initial error in marking out the traffic regions is reflected in the grouping of lines here under consideration.

If a traffic region is expected to provide for the support and development of the lines serving it, then lines serving other regions and having their principal interests therein, should not be permitted to intrude into it. The proposed grouping violates this condition.

(c) There is in the region a total mileage of 84,861. A careful study should be made of the several lines, parts of lines between terminals, branches, etc., with a view to determining what mileage has no economic justification. For the purpose of illustration, we assume that 4861 miles will be found to fall within this category. For the most part, they should be taken up and scrapped. For the small remainder, if no system is willing to assume the speculative risk of ownership, and there is believed to be a necessity for their operation, they should be subsidised by the State and the losses made good out of taxes. What the State wants and takes the State should pay for; the Constitution says it must and it is the custom among honest men.

(d) Some persons should be come to as to the size of a system that may be adequately administered by one organization that will conveniently serve the communities in which it is located, and that is small enough to maintain a personal relation between its responsible officers and the communities, corporations and individuals with whom it is in constant touch. We have assumed a limitation of roughly 5000 miles, largely upon the belief that the general officers should personally go over their entire line at least twice each year, allowing ample time for getting in touch with operating, commercial and other matters requiring personal attention in the various localities. This would contemplate, in the Southwestern region, two east and west lines, two north and south lines, one generally east of the Ozarks and one west of the Ozarks, and two lines running generally south and northeast.

(e) There should be a careful study of the traffic as now moving upon all mileage, with a view to determining its rate of growth, direction, character, etc., and a study of the physical characteristics of the region and the physical and operating characteristics of the lines. This last has to some extent been covered by Prof. Ripley, but should be carefully much further studied. Especially should the main traffic routes be clearly indicated and the points where the movement thins out to the minimum, and the divisions and groupings should be skillfully adapted to those governing conditions.

5. Position of The Kansas City Southern Railway Company with regards to the proposed consolidation.

But the beneficial results of consolidation such as are here under consideration are purely speculative, speculative to the point of the fantastic, making the venture hazardous in the extreme, and one well to be avoided by the prudent and responsible. It is the claim of the Kansas City Southern Railway Company that it is simply able to adequately serve the territory in which it is located; that no complaint is made of, and that there is no reflection upon, its service or provision of facilities for the business anticipated in the immediate future; that it is its right that it be left alone to discharge the duties undertaken through its charter and had in mind when its organization was perfected and the capital raised for its construction and working; and it makes this declaration of its belief that the district for whose business it competes and the interest of its security holders will be best served if it be left alone to work out its destiny in the light of its experience in its own way. No higher praise could be accorded the property in its control and the following excerpts from the Interstate Commerce Commission's report in discussing the line in relation to its neighbors:

"All of the railroads above enumerated (including the Kansas City Southern), operating in the Southwestern Gulf region, possess certain characteristics in common. The more important lines are based upon Kansas City and St. Louis, in so far as they have been built from the north down, following the spread of population. But they are nearly all dependent, likewise, not alone upon business in and out of these Missouri River gateways, but upon their relation to the Gulf ports.

"Traffic conditions throughout the Southwestern Gulf region are fairly uniform. Naturally, there are no manufactures, and the carriage outward consists of the products of the territory. Inbound, there is, of course, the lesser volume of manufactures and supplies which are consumed by the population. But the principal earnings of all these roads arise from the carriage of grain, shading off into the carriage of cotton and lumber for the southern and southeastern portions, the carriage of petroleum in large volume from the recently developed oil fields, and the handling of coal in considerable volume from the measures which quite generally underlie a part of the region.

"It is evident, therefore, that, with the exception of the Texas lines of the Kansas City Southern, the subsidiaries in Texas are all notably weak.

"But the Gulf-Southwestern roads as a whole are not merely a set of local carriers. They are properly called upon to perform an important function for the nation as a whole in long-hauling goods and passengers to and from the Gulf ports to the Missouri River gateways. They are necessary outlets for the entire country west of the Mississippi River. And the construction of the Panama Canal and our recently developed mercantile marine interests are bound together in an intimate fashion the import and export features of the Southwestern Gulf traffic. These roads differ considerably. Some of them, like the Kansas City Southern, a bee line between Kansas City and the Gulf, have been favored connections for many years with the great systems operating north of Kansas City.

"There is nothing corresponding for directness with the air line of the Kansas City Southern, north of that city (Shreveport).

"The Kansas City Southern Railway goes straight as an arrow from Kansas City down the eastern boundary of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to the Gulf. Nothing could be shorter than this competitive route, which, of course goes most of the long-haul lucrative traffic.

"The road is assuredly in the best condition perhaps of any property within this group, and its strength, largely built upon its main-line business, should be properly utilized to support the great extent of branch mileage of the Missouri Pacific."

Lewis Didn't Have Much Trouble in Showing Dan Koloff Where to "Head" In, Last Night

Koloff Endures 23 Successive Headlocks, Lewis Wins on 24th; Bulgarian No Match for Champion

World's Wrestling Champion Defeats Challenger in Straight Falls—Defeated Man Makes Little Effort to Avoid Titleholder's Grip at Start.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Was Daniel Koloff there in a pinch? We'll inform the universe that he was. To be exact, he was in no less than 24 of them in the first eight minutes of his match with Mat Champion Ed "Strangler" Lewis last night at the Coliseum, and in 23 of them Daniel was "there."

The final pinch, however, which consisted of the twenty-fourth application of the champion's widely-advertised squeeze play, known as the headlock, was too much for Koloff, and he succumbed for the first fall in 8 minutes 20 seconds.

Dan's hard head appeared to have been thoroughly softened by the pressure to which it had been subjected; nevertheless, either through greater caution in keeping his dome out of chancery or through indifference by the title-holder, he performed much better after the intermission. He managed to resist Lewis for 1 hour 2 minutes and 45 seconds before another series of neck-twisters and head-crushers, six in number, brought him low for the second and final fall.

The match on its face was a vindication of Lewis' famous grip, which Koloff and others have minimized as "the bunk." But this time the world that he would let Lewis have five headlocks on him, by way of handicap, and agree to break them or forfeit the fall. Lewis had accepted, but the promoter thought it bad business and called off the arrangement.

Koloff Offers Little Resistance. However, to those at the ringside it appeared that Daniel went through with his part of the bargain on his own hook, and deliberately refused to avoid the grip.

Lewis began to "show" Daniel from the very jump. His first effort was a grab for the truncated one which with Koloff passed for a head. Daniel quickly flipped loose and Lewis grabbed again.

One after another, but with constantly increasing difficulty, and toward the close seemingly with increasing effort, Daniel flopped, jerked or pulled free from 23 of the mighty hugs of his Big Bear opponent.

But Lewis' greater size, weight and power eventually began to have their effect and it was seen that Koloff was getting hazy looking in the lamps.

The twenty-fourth pinch was vicious. Lewis with a savage wrench twisted Koloff to the floor and held him there in spite of the desperate flopping and struggling of the Bulgarian.

Henry's Demands Will Not Be Met

Bob Quinn Says Browns Cannot Pay $4200 for an Experiment.

"I offered Henry a whole lot more money than some major league stars are getting, and if he persists in his demands he can remain a holdout, as far as the Browns are concerned," thus spoke Bob Quinn, vice president of the St. Louis American League Club, this morning in commenting upon the recently announced demands of the recruit pitcher from Mobile.

Henry, a left-hander who won 20 and lost 4 games last season with the Southern Association pennant winners, wants $4200 for the year's work, according to a statement by his father. The Browns are said to have offered approximately $3500.

"We don't know whether he's a major league pitcher and we can't say the figure he demands until he makes good," said Quinn. "But George Stiller has not yet departed for the training camp. He reports that he is feeling well and that his arm is not giving him trouble. He expects to reach Mobile before Monday."

Quinn is himself preparing to visit the training camp within a few days.

STUFFY MINNIS SIGNS TO PLAY WITH BRAVES

BOSTON, March 8.—John (Stuffy) Minnis, lately released by the Cleveland Indians and formerly of the Boston Red Sox, has signed up for two years with the Boston Braves. It was announced here today. Minnis was a member of the Athletics "million-dollar" infield.

Tie in Billiard Event.

Ed Zamow went into a tie for first place in the city amateur three-cushion billiard tournament at Peterson's last night by defeating Allen Hall, 58 to 56. It was the final match of the tournament and tied Zamow with Gene Deardorff. A special 150-point match between the two is being arranged to decide the title.

To Play Fort Wayne.

The Redwelder team of the Walther League, undefeated for the season, leaves today for Fort Wayne, Ind. to meet the champion Walther League team of that city, Buchheimer, Heinze, Kneiss, Nauke and Hanner, are the regulars making the trip.

No Bid Made for Club, Frazee Says

Red Sox Owner Would Like to See the Color of Enough Coin Before He Sells.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, March 8.—Neither Ban Johnson nor the enraged natives of Boston can or will run him out of baseball, Harry Frazee declared today in reply to persistent reports from Chicago that the American League president is arranging to banish him to the outer darkness of baseball's forgotten.

Not that he would not sell the Red Sox at an attractive price. That would be quite another matter.

You can buy Mr. Frazee's seat if you take a fancy to it, provided you say it with greenbacks in sufficient quantity. But he still has his hat on until further notice and means to keep both until further notice.

George Stiller has not yet departed for the training camp. He reports that he is feeling well and that his arm is not giving him trouble. He expects to reach Mobile before Monday.

$500,000 OFFER RECEIVED FOR BROOKLYN DODGERS

NEW YORK, March 8.—Ed Summa, wealthy oil operator and turfman, has offered $500,000 for the Brooklyn National League baseball club through W. Roscoe Redmond, Brooklyn lawyer, according to the Brooklyn Daily Eagle today.

The paper today printed a dispatch from Clearwater, Fla., stating that Charles H. Ebbets, part owner of the club, acknowledged that the offer had been received, but stated that he could come to no decision without consulting his colleagues, the McKewen brothers. He indicated that the price was not satisfactory. Ebbets has been trying to dispose of his interest in the team for some time.

His Curves Baffle Cardinal Batters

Howard Freigau Star Performer At Shortstop for the Cardinals

Former Bat Boy Wallops Pitchers for 3 Hits and Shines as a Fielder—Two Young Pitchers, Stieley and Wigington, Keep Safeties Scattered.

By Herman Wecke,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 8.—Another of the Cardinals' many shortstop candidates came to the fore with a rush yesterday. This time it was Howard Freigau, the youngster from Ohio Wesleyan, who was farmed out to Syracuse last summer. Freigau was between second and third for the Cardinals in the contest against Syracuse. The Cards won 16 to 4.

This player, who last summer gained the reputation of being the highest paid bat-boy in captivity, shown both at field and at bat. He had six chances. Three of them were put-outs and all came on hard chances on which he ran far into left field for pop-flys. One of these catches was turned into a double play. His other two chances came on rollers, one of which he grabbed close to second base. He has as good an arm as any of the players who are trying for the berth.

At the plate, he poked three safeties and drew a walk in five trips. On the one turn he failed to hit safely. He scored two runs and drove in a trio. He stole two bases and that he always has his head up and evaded in the sixth, when he scored all the way from second base on an infield out. It was a nice piece of base running and he drew praise from Ricketts for his shaggy.

Boost For Shaggy. Freigau has a big booster in Frank Shaughnessy, the Syracuse manager for whom he played the latter part of the 1922 campaign. In Shaughnessy's opinion, Freigau is the best looking rookie in the camp.

He is not a newcomer as far as Ricketts is concerned. The Cardinals manager kept him under cover for three years at Ohio Wesleyan and, thinks mightily well of the player. Freigau is but 23 years of age, but is quite a big athlete, standing 5 ft. 10 in. and weighing 165 pounds. He is an aggressive player and is always looking for a run. Although a fairly good slider, he is one of the best of the workers in the stadium and under the eye of Joe Smith.

Aside from Freigau, two recent pitchers looked mighty good in the battle against the Syracuse Nationals. Leagues, who were strengthened by having Jim Bottomley at first base. The flingers were Fred Stieley, the Philadelphia southpaw, and Fred Wigington, a right hander, last season with Hastings in the Nebraska State League.

Both Out Loose.

Stieley pitched five innings and was batted hard in only one inning, when three hits, two of them extra-base wallops, netted two runs. While he was on duty, Syracuse garnered five hits. Off Wigington, the L. L. Club made three safeties and tallied on rollers, one of which he grabbed close to second base. He has as good an arm as any of the players who are trying for the berth.

Both out loose and showed a fair assortment of curves during their first workout in the afternoon. He was confined to hitting. "My Movers" were picked off the bag by Lovich.

Blades had a tough time on the bases. First time up, he doubled and was nipped trying for third. Next time he singled and was forced, while in the fourth he singled and stole second, but was picked off the bag by Lovich.

Joie Ray Breaks World Record in 5000-Metre-Race

Incidentally the Great Chicago Runner Beats His Rival, Ritola, the Finn.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Joie Ray, the best known taxicab driver in the world, left no doubt in the minds of the thousands who crowded the 102 Regiment Armory for the annual Western Union games last night that he is the superior of Willie Ritola over the 5000-metre distance.

The haughty little Illinois A. C. runner broke the existing American mark of 15:01 2-5, held by Ritola, while he was handing the Finn a decisive defeat. Ray's time also goes down into the record books as another world's indoor record. In view of the fact that indoor competition is confined to the United States, the American indoor records so far for the world's indoor records.

Ray's time was 14:54 flat. Ritola's time was 14:59 5-5, also inside the old world's record. It was clear from the start of the race that Ray thought of nothing but conquering Ritola. The memorable three-mile race at the Knights of Columbus meet had made a deep impression, a lingering and perhaps a lasting one.

Ritola Sets the Pace. For 23 laps, the two rivals held close together. Ritola held the lead until the shot for the final lap, and then came the great and undeniable sprint of Ray. His short legs carried him around the final lap like a fresh sprinter. Ritola was lost in the surge of the crowd to the finish to greet the conqueror.

Ray followed the Finn like a dog watching the footsteps of his master along some country road. It looked as if someone had ordered Ray to guard the rear of Brooklyn Willie, and he obeyed the order faithfully for 23 laps.

The pace set by Ritola was a tempting tantalizing one for Ray. The crowd urged him to greater efforts during the early part of the race, but Joie weathered the temptation. His eyes remained set upon the backward stride of the Finn. The gun changed the appearance of the little party on the last lap. Few saw how far Ray was behind the flying Ritola and no one called third place.

Judges decided to give third place to Inar Prim of the Finnish American A. C. Jackson V. Scholz of the N. Y. A. C. won the first 3200-yard race. Sam Friedman, the Yale sprinter, finished second, and John Furlinger of Faulk A. C. third. The timers caught Scholz in 25 1/2 seconds.

The 100-yard dash, invitation sprint meet, was won by Alfred Laconey of Lafayette College. Jackson V. Scholz, N. Y. A. C. took second and James W. Burgess, West Side A. C. was third. Time, 19 1/2 seconds.

For Fournier, the only absentee, Myers is due today. He will, without a doubt, be in shape for the exhibition games with the various major league clubs which are scheduled to start next week.

Three athletes were forced to leave yesterday's game because of bad legs. They were Heine Mueller of the Cardinals and Bell and Feola of the Syracuse team. Mueller's leg is sore from running too much and it is not a recurrence of the injury which kept him out of the game for the greater portion of last season.

Many Sore Legs.

There are few sore arms in the camp, but running around on the sandy soil at the local park has worked havoc with the underpinnings of many of the athletes. In order to give the players a rest, Manager Ricketts called off the morning practice yesterday. While the players were in the locker room, the coach headed by Ricketts, went into session and remained more than an hour. What it was all about was not made known.

Blades had a tough time on the bases. First time up, he doubled and was nipped trying for third. Next time he singled and was forced, while in the fourth he singled and stole second, but was picked off the bag by Lovich.

LEACOCK BASKET TEAM ENTERS A. U. NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNEY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8.—Entries for eight additional teams for the National A. U. championship basketball tournament were received yesterday, bringing the total entries to 26 teams.

Of the most important on the list received yesterday were the names of the Leacock five of St. Louis and the Indianapolis Y. M. C. A. of Indianapolis.

The Leacock recently won the municipal championship of St. Louis. It is considered probably the strongest team in St. Louis.

Drawings for the tourney will be held Sunday afternoon. Convention hall will be open for practice for visiting teams that day.

The entry list closes tonight and a total of at least 32 teams is assured.

CHICAGO, March 8.—A resolution prohibiting wrestling matches in Chicago was introduced in City Council yesterday and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Kerrick Challenges Central.

Kerrick High School, the only team which gained a victory over the High School League champion, Central High, throughout the entire season, has challenged the midcity team to a second game to determine the prep school championship.

The Kerrick defeat Central, 10 to 12, on Jan. 1 last, and the Red and Black went through the remainder of the season without a defeat. Kerrick will play St. Louis V. High at 4 o'clock tonight on the Kerrick court.

Enchantment Is Favorite Over 145 Thoroughbreds for Kentucky Derby

Big Field for This Year's Classic Notable in That Form Fails to Indicate Any Outstanding Performer—Sally's Alley Biggest 1922 Winner.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 7.—Nominations for the Kentucky Derby total 145, including 104 colts, 22 fillies and 19 geldings. Practically every good 3-year-old in America is included in the list of entries.

The race to be run May 19 is the most important turf event in America and has been decided every year, continuously since 1875. On its honor roll are many thoroughbreds that have made turf history.

The race this year will have a gross value of nearly $70,000. The winner will receive more than $50,000, in addition to gold plate valued at $7500. In its 49 runnings favorites have won 40 per cent of the events.

For the past five years the importance of the Derby has been increasing yearly. Approximately 100,000 will view the contest this year. Historic Churchill Downs has been increasing its capacity from year to year until now it is the most pretentious race course in America. Last year when Morvich won the parimutuel machines showed a "take" of more than $1,000,000 for the Derby day's racing, and a crowd estimated at 75,000 persons gathered.

Four quarters of the globe to see the son of Runnymede triumph over a field of 10. This year it is expected that as many as 20 will start.

Enchantment Still Choice. Louisville has always made the future book favorite for the Derby and the bookmakers have already chalked up Enchantment, a gelding, owned by Harry Payne Whitney, as the favorite, quoting that 3-year-old at odds of 10 to 1 "play or pay."

Enchantment comes into favoritism on account of his showing in the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes, which he won handily at Churchill Downs last September. He ran over some of the best youngsters in training in that race, including Donges, Car-tounet and others. He finished out the mile in 1:38 4-5 practically under wraps. Enchantment is not a budding gelding, however, but rather one of mood. He is what is known in the parlance of the turf as a bad post horse. He had a habit of dwelling at the barrier as a 2-year-old and for that reason he is considered by many as rather an uncertain betting proposition.

SPARTAS OF CHICAGO TO PLAY MUNICIPAL SOCCER CHAMPIONS

The Sparta Football Club, champion of the Chicago Municipal League, has been selected to represent that city in the two-game intercity series with St. Louis, which opens here on Sunday, March 25. The St. Louis championship is undecided, but the three-game series to decide the title will begin Sunday with the St. Matthews and Ben Miller as contestants.

The winning eleven will oppose the Sparta team here and on Sunday, April 1, will play in Chicago.

Kerrick Challenges Central. Kerrick High School, the only team which gained a victory over the High School League champion, Central High, throughout the entire season, has challenged the midcity team to a second game to determine the prep school championship.

The Kerrick defeat Central, 10 to 12, on Jan. 1 last, and the Red and Black went through the remainder of the season without a defeat. Kerrick will play St. Louis V. High at 4 o'clock tonight on the Kerrick court.

Gibbons-Dempsey Bout May Be Next World Title Scrap

Illness of Greb's Wife Causes Cancellation of Go With St. Paul Heavy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Tom Gibbons may be the first man of any title importance to box the heavy-weight champion of the world. Gibbons will fall heir to a crash at Dempsey's title because of the calling off of the bout between Harry Greb and Gibbons, scheduled for Madison Square Garden on March 19. Greb's wife is critically ill, and Gibbons has asked to be released from his contract at this time. With that bout out of the way for the present at least, Tex Rickard and Frank Fitzsimmons, hot matchmakers, have decided to match Dempsey and Gibbons for Boyle's Thirty Acres, the bout to take place late next summer.

Gibbons originally was matched to meet Floyd Johnson for the Minn. Fund, but when the chance came for Johnson to meet Jess Willard for the same charity, Gibbons, with splendid sportsmanship, eliminated himself by giving his consent to the change for the good of the fund. As a reward, Rickard matched Gibbons with Greb to fill the date originally set for Gibbons and Johnson.

Now that Greb cannot go through with the bout, Rickard wants to bring the Greb fight on with his opponent. Gibbons has agreed to make the champion.

The bout has been ruled out of this time, in the opinion of William Muldoon, manager of the St. Paul Heavyweight champion, Gibbons is too small for Dempsey.

$100,000 OFFER DOESN'T INTEREST JACK DEMPSEY. CLEVELAND, O., March 8.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavy-weight boxing champion, will not meet Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul, in a 12-round bout here, July 4, or on Labor day.

"Thanks, not interested," was the cryptic reply received by a local promoter to an offer of a $100,000 guarantee of 25 per cent of the gate receipts. Gibbons already had accepted terms, the promoter said.

RUTH JOINS YANKS AT NEW ORLEANS CAMP. HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 8.—Babe Ruth's departure with Mike McNally and Col. Houston for New Orleans, the arrival of William Kecknie, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates with a group of his players and the first workout by Manager Frank Chance of his Red Sox, featured the activities of the Hot Springs big league baseball training camp yesterday.

Perfect weather just before training time drew the home-run King's mind again to the links and golf and McNally were both to leave Col. Houston, who made his 18 holes before departure, was in high spirits

Third Base Presents Fine Scrap at Browns' Camp; Shocker on Scene

Ellerbe May Have First Call at Hot Corner, but Three New Men Are Giving Him a Battle — Tobin and Jacobson Forced to Hustle in the Outfield.

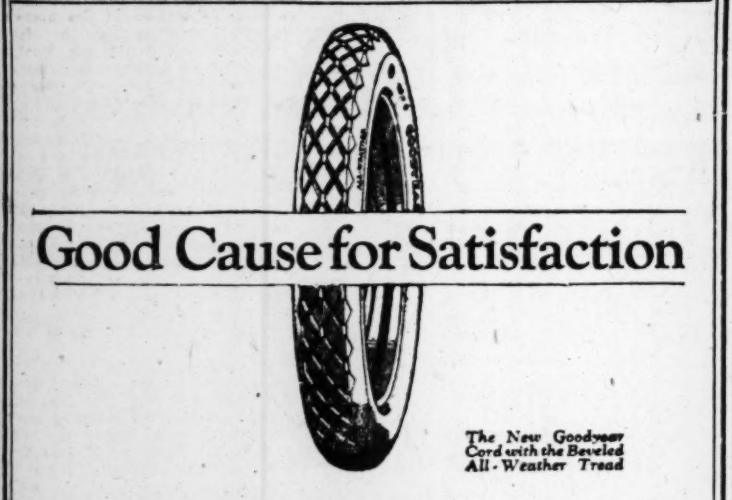

By J. Roy Stockton,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
MOBILE, Ala., March 8.—There is a great difference between the atmosphere at the Browns' training camp this year and the one that prevailed when the Fohlmen prepared here last season for the pennant race. Last year there was not a position to be filled, not a job in danger. The club had its usual collection of youngsters, but future prospects described them. There was not expectation that any of the new players, with the exception of a couple of pitchers, would make any ripple in the big league puddle.

But this season it is different. Two hot struggles are going on. One is the battle of third base and the other is the battle of the outfield. And the fact that perhaps a few veterans are clinging to their regular spots with none too light a grip makes for a new spirit of endeavor and perseverance.
Nobody knows who will be at third base when the season starts. Frank Ellerbe, who held down the berth last season until his knee slipped out of joint, is carefully tending and thus far the injured joint has shown no signs of going bad again. But the "Governor" collapsed so suddenly last year and the injury recurred so quickly after he got back into harness that Fohl decided to be better prepared for the next campaign.

Five Candidates.
As a result H. F. Rice, Homer Ezzell and Sylvester Simon are trying to prove to Fohl that they are better third basemen than any one who guarded the corner for the Browns last year. Then there is Gene Robertson, whose prospects are considered so bright that Fohl has clung to him for several years.

Jimmy Austin is out there clamoring for action and old Eddie Foster, who filled the breach after Ellerbe was injured and Bronkie was injured, is prepared to go into action if all the young blood fails.
Perhaps it will depend entirely on Ellerbe's legs. If the governor's props stand firm he undoubtedly will get the call, as he has shown under fire what he can do. But it is a fine fight. The infielders are out there early and they are the last ones to quit.

Tobin Hustling.
In the outfield Williams, Jacobson and Tobin are working harder than they ever worked. Tobin particularly has been tending to business more

It's a real pleasure to be a Goodyear Service Station Dealer these days.

In the first place, the public is getting tired of fictitious "discounts" and delusive "bargains" and is turning back to sound tire values.

Willard Bout Stopped By Kansas City Police; Plestina Beats Cutler

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8.
INTERVENTION by John Wilson, Police Commissioner, who invoked the State boxing law, prevented an exhibition boxing match here last night, featuring Jess Willard, former champion. Willard was to have boxed with a sparring partner.
Willard announced from the ring that he soon would start training in Excelsior Springs, Mo., for his match with Floyd Johnson.
The exhibition was to have followed a wrestling bout, in which Martin Plestina defeated Charles Cutler in straight falls.
In a preliminary, Chris Jordan defeated Joe Sanderson in straight falls.

Wall Street News and Comment

SPECIAL DAILY

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The stock market today had the sharpest check it has experienced in over a month. Prices broke sharply in the early declines. Then the Wall Street syndicates endeavored to check the decline by throwing supporting orders into a number of the more prominent stocks. For a time this maneuver was successful. A quick rise in the stocks and equipment shares had a steady effect upon the general list. But in the last half-hour selling was resumed and prices fell away rapidly, the market closing weak.

Railway shares did better but still failed to show the least enthusiasm over the latest figures for car loadings—those for the week ending February 24—which showed an increase of 12,445 over the week before, and continued to break all records for the season. Based on these car loading statistics which so far have been a trustworthy indication, the February traffic results will prove to have been even more favorable than those of January.

The Bond Market.

The terms of the new Government financing, while recognizing the change in the money market, could not be regarded as surprising. The one-year certificate offered today at 97 1/2, the 10-year at 95 1/2, and the 30-year at 93 1/2, were all placed in December.

Liberty bonds moved irregularly. They held better, however, than high-grade rails or industrials. They were little change in the foreign group. French bonds maintained their gains fairly well.

SIO EACH FROM HENS IN YEAR

City Woman Keeps Wolf From Husband's Farmhouse.

By the Associated Press.
JOLIET, March 8.—A city woman who went from "schoolmarm" to chicken raising in the country has kept hard times away from her husband's Kendall County farm.

She is Mrs. Ray Coop and she has a flock of 145 hens which she calls her "SIO hens" because each bird netted her last year a little better than $10 each.

Mrs. Coop sells market eggs, broilers, baby chicks, breeding stock and eggs for hatching to private customers. That is, she doesn't put all her eggs in one basket, and if something goes wrong with one line of the poultry business she has several others to fall back on. Her chicks brought $443.99 in 1933, bringing in the greatest returns. She sells the chicks at 22 cents each. The next best income was from broilers, which brought $388.57. The broilers yielded from 50 cents to 20 cents a pound for the ones sold late in the season. Hatching eggs brought $87, breeding stock $221.54 and culled hens $58.63. Mrs. Coop is rearing two boys.

DEATHBED CONFESSION SOLVES 14-YEAR-OLD MURDER MYSTERY

Widow Says Joplin Man Admitted Firing Shot That Killed Man Found in Alley.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JOPLIN, Mo., March 8.—A confession by Ray C. Douglass, as he lay on his deathbed last week, cleared a murder mystery that has puzzled the police since May 14, 1919, when the body of John Clark, a laborer, pierced by a bullet, was found in an alley in East Joplin. Douglass, his widow told the police, called his brother, Arthur Douglass, to his bedside a few days before he died, and told him that it was he who shot Clark.

Corroboration was given by Allen Humphrey, a patient in the Jasper County antituberculosis hospital. Humphrey said he met Douglass on the streets of East Joplin the night of the shooting and the latter confessed that he feared an attempt on his life would be made by the husband of his former wife. At 10 o'clock the two started home together. The streets were dark. As they passed an alley they heard a strange noise.

"The noise frightened Douglass," said Humphrey. "He jumped as if shot, drew his revolver and fired three shots at a crouching object in the darkness."

The next morning Humphrey and Douglass read of the finding of Clark's body. They agreed that it should be their secret and both kept it.

MRS. JENNIE POTTER HAYDEN'S FUNERAL TOMORROW AFTERNOON

She Was at One Time Among Most Prominent Artists of St. Louis.

The funeral of Mrs. Jennie Potter Hayden, 91 years old, widow of Edwin Hayden, first president of the Mercantile Club, will be held at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow at Tuscan Temple, King's highway and Westminster place. She died Tuesday night at the Masonic Home, where she resided after her husband's death in 1912. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mrs. Hayden, who had been blind for several years, was at one time among the most prominent amateur artists of St. Louis and her prize paintings of Southern landscapes were features of the art exhibit of the St. Louis Fair in 1902. She was also a singer and teacher. A son, Frank, was known as a painter of ability.

With the exception of a few years in Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. Hayden, a native of New York, had lived here since 1863, when her husband became superintendent of the American Express Co. in St. Louis, and later a member of the Board of Directors. The family passed safely through the cholera epidemic here, although victims occurred in houses on both sides of their home. They had a similar experience when cholera visited Chicago. A daughter, Maud, survives Mrs. Hayden.

St. Paul Newspaper Owner Dies.
ST. PAUL, Minn., March 8.—L. V. Ashbaugh, owner of the St. Paul Daily News and formerly owner of the Minneapolis Daily News, died here today after a lingering illness.

IDENTIFIED BY PHOTOGRAPHS

By the Associated Press.
DANVILLE, Ill., March 8.—William Noll of this city and Mrs. Frank H. Keck of Champaign yesterday positively identified photographs of Riviere, Horner and Lloyd Feltz of St. Joseph, Mo., and Oklahoma City, as the two men who held up and robbed Noll in his home here and were worsted in an attempt to rob the Keck family a week later in a similar manner by the bravery of Mrs. Keck and her son. In the fight with the Kecks, Horner was killed by the son, but Feltz managed to carry his body away in his automobile. Four days later Feltz dumped Horner's body on the sidewalk in front of the home of Horner's parents in Oklahoma City and then disappeared.

BROADWAY & FRANKLIN

FOREIGN BANKING SERVICE

Firms, corporations and individuals in St. Louis and in the Great Central West, need no longer look to eastern banks for foreign banking and information service.

In harmony with the policy of the city's largest bank to offer St. Louisans banking facilities of every character and equal to those of any other city, the First National Bank, by sending representatives abroad to study the post-war conditions of foreign countries, as well as adding all the experience and observation available here at home with reference to local requirements in connection with foreign trade and travel, has established a FOREIGN DEPARTMENT in the minutest detail, so there is probably no service found in any city or port that is not available at this dominant institution.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

LET the WOMEN enforce prohibition! It is the cry from the heart of Mrs. Clifford Pinchot, wife of the Governor of Pennsylvania. Are we mistaken, or do we hear subdued yet sardonic cheers from the OTHER side of the sex fence? Amid that rumble of riant applause we make believe we are a politician and therefore entitled, even expected, to press our ear to the ground. And we think there comes a deep bass chorus:

Top. LET the women enforce prohibition! They get us into the mess; let's see what they'll do with it. Let them tackle the smugglers, the bootleggers, the judges and public officials and pillars of society, who are the bootleggers' best customers. Let them solve the problem of finding bribe-proof, graft-proof, booze-proof Middle-class Matties who will really enforce the most unpopular legislation ever put over in this country. Let them 'take prohibition out of politics'—let them 'make St. Louis bone dry.' Go to it, dear ladies—what's stopping you? We wish you joy of your job!

All of which is fine rhetorical sarcasm but four-flushing, side-stepping logic.

There never has been a hard, mean, low-down chore, from cleaning out the lumber room to washing the dog, which men haven't tried to wish on women—usually with success.

That is why in their secret hearts many men would be delighted to resign to the chore-doing sex the enforcement of Prohibition and the responsibility therefor. Then they—instead of us—might snicker in peace at the spectacle of Senators, their nerves worn and torn with the necessity of talking to death the Ship Subsidy Bill, consulting the cloakroom for "cheer" and staggering forth "cheered," not to say inebriated. Then men as well as women might be amused at Congress' passionate anxiety to third-degree the embassies in order to discover the quantity, quality and source of their alcoholic content. (Why in the world doesn't Congress demand an investigation of the Senate's cloakroom? Any "evidence" there would be so much more accessible under diplomatic seal.)

OF COURSE men would like women to assume the odium of dry-cleaning the country. But why pick on us? We didn't add the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution. We didn't even vote for the Volstead act.

"Always blame the women," is a trusty masculine maxim. But the wettest Americans might remember that the Prohibition Amendment was proclaimed law nearly eight months ahead of the Suffrage Amendment, and also that if there ever was a right little, tight little, man-made machine, the Anti-Saloon League is it!

If the authorities really decide to use women as Prohibition enforcement agents, we suggest that the first squad be recruited from the Molly Pitchers.

As several persons have pointed out, the only way to make the country bone dry is to put a revenue officer in every kitchen. Perhaps Mrs. Pinchot has found the answer to that problem.

Perhaps the Anti-Suffragists were right and woman's place IS in the home—keeping the home brew out of it. She'll have her job cut out for her.

"Imperious Caesar, dead and turned to clay, Might stop a hole to keep the wind away."

But if Imperious Caesar were dug up, would he have King Tutankhamen's hypnotic eye on Dame Fashion? One hears tragic tales of the mean things H. R. H. Tut has done to "the trade." It is scragging the beautiful frocks and coats made up in advance of Carnarvon's coup. These modes may be "chic" and "stunning" and "adorable" and "bewildering" and—oh! go read the rest of the adjectives in Vogue—but they are not Egyptian. That is to say, they don't exist. They belong in the limbo with balloon sleeves, linen-collared shirtwaists and wasp-like evening gowns. No woman would be found dead wearing them.

The 1923 vamp is going back to original sources. She has made up her mind to be a Serpent of Old Nile.

Therefore all the new clothes must be made on the plan of mummy wrappings, sprinkled with hieroglyphs and featuring the pyramid silhouette. "The trade" is among those who tell us that Tut should have been left in peace.

We read again the old story that the former Kaiser would never have breathed if he had not been shaken violently by the physician attendant at his birth. Sometimes it's so much safer and more economical to let nature take its course!

An Indignation Meeting

By Thornton W. Burgess

When many Crows all talk at once They make a noisy chatter, But you will find that little's said; 'Tis naught but foolish chatter.

—Hooty the Owl.

WHAT Blacky the Crow had told her Mrs. Blacky found to be wholly true. There was no doubt that their old nest had been taken by Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Blacky. Watching them from the top of a tall tree near by, Mrs. Blacky grew angrier and angrier. She grew so angry she almost choked. How she did long to scream at those two Owls and tell them just what she thought of them. But she didn't dare to. No, sir; she didn't dare do it. She didn't dare make a sound. That is why her anger almost choked her.

Having satisfied herself that what Blacky had told her was true, she flew back to where he was waiting for her, and then in silence they flew over to a group of big hemlock trees, where in company with their relatives and friends they spent their nights. It was almost dark when they got there, and most of the other Crows had arrived. Many of them had settled themselves for the night.

Blacky flew at once to the top of the tallest tree and there began to caw at the top of his lungs. It was the Crow call for a meeting. Those who had settled themselves for the night came out again. Those who had not yet arrived but were within hearing of his voice hurried as fast as they could make their wings go. Every one knew that Blacky had something important to tell.

As soon as the last straggler had arrived Blacky and Mrs. Blacky told what had happened. They told how they had visited their old nest, thinking perhaps they might repair it and use it again, and how they discovered that it had been taken by Hooty the Great Horned Owl and Mrs. Blacky. At the mention of some time before Blacky could on with his story.

"Do you mean to tell us that these Owls have already begun nesting with snow everywhere and the Big River still covered with ice?" demanded a young Crow in a tone of voice that plainly showed that he, for one, didn't believe it.

"You heard what I said," retorted Blacky sharply. The young Crow looked around at all the older Crows and saw that not one of them doubted what Blacky had told them. He suspected that he had exposed his own ignorance, so he quietly changed his perch to a place where he could hear but not be noticed. As soon as Blacky and Mrs. Blacky had finished their story all those

FASHION NEWS

NOTES

PARIS—Even the children today are being put into Egyptian modes. The newest frock for a little girl of perhaps 5 years is in serge, but it has a winged clasp on one shoulder and a slightly draped effect on the tiny skirt, the drapery being held by a big Egyptian ornament.

PARIS—Black musquash is the fur now seen here on many of the smart spring gowns. The fur is used in subtle and small touches, edging a panel or the sleeves or rimming one side of a big decorative buttonhole.

LONDON—Gray straw hats are in vogue today for springtime. They follow the poke bonnet shape usually. Sometimes the trimming is only a large ribbon bow on one side, but sometimes the bow is supplemented with silk or wool embroidery around the crown and brim.

LONDON—Braid panels today are appearing on street suits. Many of these suits are extensively braided on circle braid, on sleeves, collars and around the hem of the short jacket. The one step further is the panel effect produced by short, horizontal rows of braid down one side of the skirt.

NEW YORK—Hosiery as seen here is taking out itself neutral shades to go with spring fabrics. Silver and gunmetal are seen, as well as natural and flesh. The browns run chiefly to such shades as otter and beaver. There are some cold stockings, which look marvelously well with the correct costume.

NEW YORK—Shoes of colored kid promise to be popular with the first glint of spring sunshine. Sandals of red, green and blue will be worn not only with sports clothes, but also with afternoon frocks and street garb.

NEW YORK—Bracelets today grow more and more dangle. A favorite just now is the black bracelet, whether in jet or onyx. From its circlet hang a dozen pendents of crystal or pearl or curiously carved white jade.

PARIS—Whatever did the designers do in the quaint old days before Tutankhamen's tomb was discovered? It is certain they have done nothing since then but copy his garb. Of course they do. Today is the Pharaoh's funeral bouquet which madame carries; a cone shaped mass of small blossoms arranged on a painted staff by a florist who has a photograph of the funeral bouquets taken from the Luxor excavation.

PARIS—Fantastic cuffs mark some of the advance models of afternoon frocks shown here today. The gauntlet seems to be the chief motif. In both heavy and light materials, the gauntlet elbow is deep and sometimes ruffled. The cuff extends over the hand to the knuckles.

LONDON—Leaf green is a tender shade utilized today not merely for dressy gowns, but also for sports attire. A Jersey cloth sports suit of leaf green has a few well placed lozenges of silk embroidery in yellow and red and lavender.

NEW YORK—The little wrist bags for use on smart occasions, such as concerts, theaters and teas, today are being made of taffeta in a delicate tint. Jewels, often matching the silk or in a somewhat deeper shade, thickly encrust the metal clasp.

NEW YORK—A remarkable costume blouse shown here today follows faithfully the lines of the short jacket. Of crepe de chine and lined with beads, it has no belt at all, but falls loosely to the hips. The collar is just large enough to be worthy the name of turnover.

WORDS of WISE MEN

Thoughts shut up want air and spoil.

Desires, by a long estrangement from better things, come at length to loathe them.

There are more people who wish to be loved than those who are willing to love.

Enthusiasm is what keeps a man at work when everyone else has gone to a football game.

That man is great (in his own way) who can use the brains of others to carry on his work.

To live long, it is necessary to live slowly.

Crows began talking at once. And as is the way with Crows, they talked very loud. Such a racket as they made! To have heard them you would have thought that that nest belonged to all of them instead of just to Blacky and Mrs. Blacky. Each one seemed to make the matter a personal affair. Each one had a great deal to say as to what should be done.

It was too late to do anything that night, for there was not a Crow among them who would dare be out after dark. So, after a great deal of talk and indignation, it was decided that early the next morning they would all go together and drive Hooty away from Blacky's nest.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

MURRAY STEWART was a Scotsman on his father's side, but he had had an Irish mother, and at this biggest moment of his life the beguiling sweetness and the Celtic romance of her nature was the uppermost in him. His business acumen, his steadiness of character, his keen industry, his steadfast uprightiness had all come to him from Scotland.

But the headlong love that Cynthia had aroused in him, and the wild, sweet romance in his nature, was bequeathed by the beautiful Irish mother he had so adored, and was an inheritance from the unhappy, lovely, tragic land from which she sprang.

"Say that you love me, darling," he whispered once again, and his voice sounded to the girl like some old, forgotten melody she had once known and loved. "Say there never will be anyone else in your life—but me—just say it, sweetheart, say it!"

The deep blue sky above their heads was all a-glitter now with stars—new "little stars" that had come to peep inquisitively, sympathetically upon them—and here and there in the dark canopy a star was twinkling and twinkling merrily, as though on scented nights of spring it had seen other lovers breathing vows and sighs of love, exactly as those two absurd young humans on the balcony were doing!

"I've never cared for a girl before," the eager young man was stammering, with his cheeks against the fronds and tendrils of her pretty hair. "A woman-bater some people called me—but they were wrong—all wrong! I was only waiting, hoping that the one girl in all the world would come along—that I might meet her and recognize her—and that she could learn to feel the way I did—she must learn—I shall teach her—Cynthia!"

Something tugged at her very heartstrings, then, so that she turned her face up to her lover in the new clear starlight, and—let him look long and deep into her unfathomable eyes.

"The loveliest eyes in the world!" he whispered, gazing at though under a magic spell. "Dear lilac eyes that have drawn the very soul out of me, so that I put that soul in your little hands now, to have and to hold, forever."

An enchanted silence fell between them for a moment. Inside the house the liquid notes of the Italian singer floated toward them in his melting tenor:

"My... star... of... eve... whose tender... beam... shines... on my spirit's... troubled... dream..."

And Murray Stewart whispered into Cynthia's ear:

"He sings that song of love for us, dear heart—for you and me. Fate has ordained that on my troubled spirit—for many times it has been vexed and troubled—and alone—the soft, kindly glances of those lovely eyes of yours should fall, like hail!"

She tilted up her face to him, and in the starlight it was pale and subtle, like the petals of a flower.

"I never thought—I never dreamed—there could be such a trembling sweetness—in the world—until tonight." It seemed to her as though some other girl was speaking, not her usually well-poised self. "If you give me—the greatest gift you could give—I shall always cherish it—deep down in my heart."

Her voice broke, and—from the drawing room—flowed the liquid strains of the great aria that has moved the hearts of millions.

Murray Stewart bent his head, and his lips met Cynthia's in a long, enchanted kiss.

"Tell me you love me, sweetheart! Tell me that you're in earnest! He looked long and deep into the unfathomable eyes that had so captivated his very heart and soul. "You wouldn't be so cruel as to play with me!"

She could have laughed aloud at the sheer absurdity of that. She—Cynthia Brant, the little country girl to whom lovers were an unknown species—to trifle with a fascinating, much-sought-after, splendid man like Murray Stewart!

Her voice came sweet and low, almost like the sighing of a breeze in the lilac boughs beyond the balcony.

"I care—so very much! It seems too wonderful to speak about. Like a bewilderingly lovely dream, from which I'm half afraid to wake!"

"You darling!" He kissed her once again. "This is the happiest evening of my life. And it's only going to be the first of many, isn't it?"

She pressed her head against his shoulder, utterly content.

In her young life there had been so little positive joy of any sort that this thrilling happiness bewildered her. It seemed incredible—a miracle, indeed!—to think that

Would You Be Beautiful?

Beauty has been the quest of all ages. Thousands of lovely women attribute their beauty to the use of Nadine Face Powder. The cheeks have just a tint of color—the skin can only be equalled by the soft texture of a rose petal. Nadine will keep the roses in your cheeks. It will adhere and protect the skin from the sun, wind and dust. It contains no white lead or other ingredient to harm the skin or the eyes. It's the same pure powder, popular for so many years—only the box and fragrance have been improved.

How You May Avoid Causes of Acute Bronchitis

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

THERE are certain diseases which run along with the seasons. For instance, we associate pneumonia with winter, and bowel complaints with summer. Of course these diseases do not confine their activities to any one time of year, but seasonal conditions encourage their development.

One of the ailments frequently met in the early spring is acute bronchitis. The winds of March and the dampness of April contribute conditions capable of disturbing the breathing machinery.

A hard cold or a series of colds may end in involvement of the bronchial tubes. Old people are more likely to be affected than are those in the prime of life. Indeed, one of the common ailments of old folks is bronchitis. It is not unusual to meet with chronic and obstinate cases in advanced life.

Whenever there are many cases of measles and whooping cough in the community there is sure to be a great deal of acute bronchitis. It is almost certain to appear under these circumstances.

I regret that society is so indifferent to the importance of the diseases of childhood. They are too serious to be regarded lightly. When a child is attacked by one of the acute infections or contagions, he should be watched closely to make sure there is no persistent remnant of the disease, or some complication

Do You Follow the Rules For Beautiful Eyes?

By LUCREZIA BORI

ACCORDING to the belief of many, a woman is either born with beautiful eyes, or she is not.

While there is much in this, it doesn't do to believe it too strongly,
for you'd be surprised to know how much can be done to make or mar
the beauty of your eyes.

Of course, their color doesn't depend upon the care you take of them. You're born with big blue eyes or big brown eyes, or else you're not. If your eyes happen to be green or hazel, don't wish they were blue or brown. Many famous beauties have had eyes which weren't precisely any one color, but gained infinite charm because of their changeableness.

Half the beauty which your eyes possess depends upon the care you take of them. There's no comparison between eyes which are dull and lustreless and tired-looking, and the same eyes when they are sparkling with life and spirit and health.

The whole thing is to take the best possible beauty care of the pair of eyes that you have. And in this care, beauty and health practically dovetail, for you can't have beautiful eyes without having healthy ones.

First of all, you must pay attention to your brows and lashes. You should have a little eyebrow brush with which to brush your brows at least once a day. This keeps them smooth and clean and trains them to grow in the right direction. Then, too, white vaseline rubbed carefully
on your lashes at night helps to make them grow long and keep healthy.

The main point to observe is this:
Try not to tire your eyes. This is of the utmost importance.

Really, none of us realize how constantly we use our eyes until something ails them for awhile. Then we know how utterly helpless we are without eyes that are strong and healthy.

Now if you are engaged in some occupation that makes it very necessary for you to use your eyes every day, you will have to be very careful about reading, sewing and other night occupations that strain your eyes unduly. As hard as it may seem to deny yourself reading or other pleasures, you should guard your eyes jealously. Surely you can find someone to read to you at night,

and it's better to go without an extra frock or two than to strain your eyes making them.

Here's an eye lotion that's excellent for bathing your eyes. Use it once a day or whenever your eyes
are tired:

Boric acid solution... 1 ounce
Adrenalin chloride... 30 drops

Have your druggist mix this for
you. Apply with an eye-cup or eye-dropper. Be sure to hold your head well back so the lotion from the eye-cup has a good chance to get into your eye and lave it thoroughly.

Among the most important don'ts are: Don't read on the train and don't read where there is a bad light.

Women make better credit managers than men, it is claimed.

Women Are Women

By Winifred Black

"WELL, now," said the pleasant little person in the pleasant little gown and the agreeable little hat, "I'm learning something every minute—and, dear me, when I was 20, I thought I knew it all!"

"What have you learned today?"
asked one who was not without human curiosity.

"I've learned why girls run away with chauffeurs," said the pleasant
little person. "Rich girls, I mean, puzzled and thought there must be something wrong with the girls!"

"But this morning I walked down Fifth avenue, and I passed the most fashionable church in town and it was raining."

"And it was time for the end of the service, and all the chauffeurs were standing by the church door,
in a row—holding umbrellas for those who were coming out."

A Keen Observation.

"And they were smart, and neat,
and their cheeks were red, and they had bright eyes. And—let me tell you something—they all had broad shoulders, and each stood as straight as a soldier when the Colonel is reviewing a troop."

"They looked so husky, and healthy, and masculine and virile—
and just as I was thinking that, out came the girls and the women, and the young men and the old men."

"And the old men were purty and bow-windowed, or else they were stringy and cadaverous, with big veins in their hands and thin necks."

"And the young men were pale and pasty and hollow-eyed, and not a single one of them stood up straight—like a man."

"Every one of them sunk in at the waist, like an old-fashioned girl, and if it wasn't for their height,
they really looked more like girls
than they did like men. And now
I know why the society girls sometimes fall in love with the chauffeurs."

"He looks like a man, anyhow,
and not like a little marionette
strung on wires, or a figure in a window made to show off the latest things in English mackintoshes, or the really smart idea in the way of golf outfits."

We're Women Before We're Ladies.

"I suppose I'm sort of old-fashioned, but I do love to have a man
look like a man, and act like a man."

"I even like to smell cigars—yes,

even an old pipe—better than I do
the smell of a cigarette."

"Hopeless—eh, what?"

And somehow, do you know, I found myself saying: "Hear! Hear!
Carry on!"

I wonder if the modern girls are so awfully different from the old-fashioned girls, after all?

Do they really like these ladylike young men, or do they just pretend to like them because they are all they can get?

Oh, yes, money and position and education—family and tradition and all that kind of thing—they count—
they have to count in the scale of happiness. A girl who marries a man with different ideas and different ideals from hers—I wonder if she's ever really quite happy.

I wonder if the average girl can wear silk and lie upon satin and be happy and contented if she marries
a man who can't afford to buy her anything but cotton and gingham?

And books and pictures and music—these things are a vital part of life, too, and they cost money, and they mean education and culture.

But, all the same, I can quite understand myself how a natural girl can look at a straight, broad-shouldered, red-cheeked man and see that he's a man and a good-looking one and wish that her Bertie or her Sydney was just a little bit more like
—er—well, to be plain about it,
like the chauffeur who stands so straight in the rain and waits for her so sturdily at the church door.

For women are, after all, women
—before they are ladies. Isn't it strange how we are always trying to pretend that we've forgotten all about that?

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

How Ninon De L'Enclos Became the Idol of Paris

NINON DE L'ENCLOS did not lead an army. She did not rush into a burning building to save a life. She started no new movement. She could not sing. She never composed a poem or wrote a line. She was not the mother of a famous man nor the wife of a king.

Ninon de L'Enclos was just beautiful, witty and fascinating.

Perhaps this does not seem enough to catalogue Ninon de L'En-clos as a heroine. She really did nothing to give her rank as such.
Nothing but personality recommended her and kept her name on the lips of thousands for centuries. It seems as if that peculiar charm which radiated from her with such power should be considered as much of a qualification to consider her historically as would a beautiful voice or the talent to act.

But Ninon did not charm or amuse audiences. She delighted her friends and fascinated some of the most famous men in France. And she controlled herself and many personages great in the day she lived.

Her will was strong, even though she was a butterfly of the gayest type in Parisian society of the seventeenth century.

Her life seemingly was one of pleasure. But in leading this apparently useless life she gave great enjoyment to her friends, and became an institution in the frivolous era which was hers.

This famous beauty was very well
born. She took her place in society because of that fact. There were times when her social standing seemed seriously threatened. Because she was fearless and audacious
she did not fear criticism, although much of her life was not admirable.
However, the character of the time in which she lived—the loose, the customs of the court were of such a nature that Ninon's indiscretions did not stand out as flagrantly as they would today.

It was the woman's natural charm which drew people to her, and which enabled her to have the most distinguished salon of the latter part of the seventeenth century. Here at the great men and women of the day met and conversed. At her entertainments many grave political moves were conceived.

So important were the soirees of Ninon de L'Enclos that they were described in this way:

"Women of the highest virtue encouraged their sons on their entry into the great world to visit Ninon
on account of the social advantage according to anyone admitted into such amiable society, regarded, as it was, as the very center of good company."

Ninon held sway over men's hearts and ruled Parisian society with her irresistible magnetism from the time she was 15 until she was 59. Her charm deserted her only with death.
It continued its conquest even through her old age. So strong was the drawing quality of this woman's personality that when she was 51 a young man almost went mad when she repulsed his declarations of love.

Ninon lives in memory as a beautiful woman, who graced the world in which she lived. She was greatly loved by many men and envied by most women of her day.

Perhaps the maxim of which Ninon de L'Enclos was authoress,
and of which subject she was mistress, is the key to her fame. For she said: "Love without grace is like a hook without bait."

TODAY'S ALARM CLOCK The Gilbert Thinlarm

AGAINST a background of obsolete, ponderous, thickset "old timers" the New Gilbert THINLARM stands supreme as the latest development in alarm clock design and construction.

It has remained for GILBERT of Winsted
—"Makers of Good Clocks since 1807"
—to produce, perfect and introduce the first thin model alarm clock ever made.

The THINLARM is made in a variety of styles and sizes with plain or luminous dial, which tells time in the dark. But in every style or size, the THINLARM is the utmost in alarm clock value for you.

From the silver-toned back bell to the

new BENT GLASS and MATLESS DIAL (enabling you to tell time from any angle) the finest materials and best workmanship are embodied.

The slim, graceful case is heavily nickel plated with a MIRROR FINISH over solid brass. The case is as near DUST-PROOF as a clock case can be, and the position of the KEYS insures easy winding of the Standard Gilbert 30 hour intermittent alarm movement.

ODE TO THE MARCH WIND.

THOUGH harbingers of spring may get together
And pipe their lays foretelling balmy weather,
We know according to the weather annals,
It isn't wise to chuck your winter flannels.

But consolation in the thought we find,
If April comes can May be far behind?

Though cherry trees are bursting into blossom,
The chances are old Winter's playing possum;
We mustn't let those signs of spring concern us—
Tomorrow we'll be stoking up the furnace.

But it is just as well to bear in mind,
If March blows in, May can't be far behind.

"Dr. Elliot Once Drank Beer."
He is not the only one.

Jack Dempsey says when his time comes he wants to be socked out of the title. There are plenty of young gent who are willing to oblige.

Frankie Genaro believes in making hay while the making is good.
In less than a week after acquiring the flyweight crown he got on the job and knocked Frankie Williams
for a sequence of ash cans.

It is quite refreshing to see a champion who is working on the job.

SPACE FILLERS.

THIS verse, my friend,
Is nothing fit;
It's just to see
Who'll add to it.

—Adam Brede.

OF course it's punk.
And hardly verse,
But I will add
One that is worse.

—Luke McLuke.

THEY'RE pretty punk.
In fact, they're bum;
But still the "verse"
Is yet to come.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

MAKING IT UNANIMOUS.

A FEW years ago a friend of mine, a man I had known from childhood, came up from the South to stay a week with me in New York.
Three of us, an old cronie of his, but all living in the north, met him at the train.

At my suggestion we dropped into the cafe of the Imperial Hotel on Broadway. Hotels had cafes in those days, and our friend was thirsty, he said. We lined up at the bar, facing a genial gentleman in a white jacket and a white apron, and the newly arrived asked us what we were going to take.

Now it so happened that at the moment all three of us, for one reason or another, were riding on the well-known water wagon—a circumstance of which he was not aware and probably one which he had never dreamed could be possible.

He turned to me.
"What's it going to be?" he asked, genially.

I said:

"A glass of buttermilk."

He gave a start of surprise. But, like a true Kentucky gentleman, he did not voice his emotions. He turned to the second member of the group.

"And what do you take?" he inquired, hopefully.

"Oh," said No. 2, "I don't want anything except a plain lemonade."

His eyes widened as he waved his arm toward the third man.

"And yours?" he inquired.

"Mine is a ginger ale," was the answer.

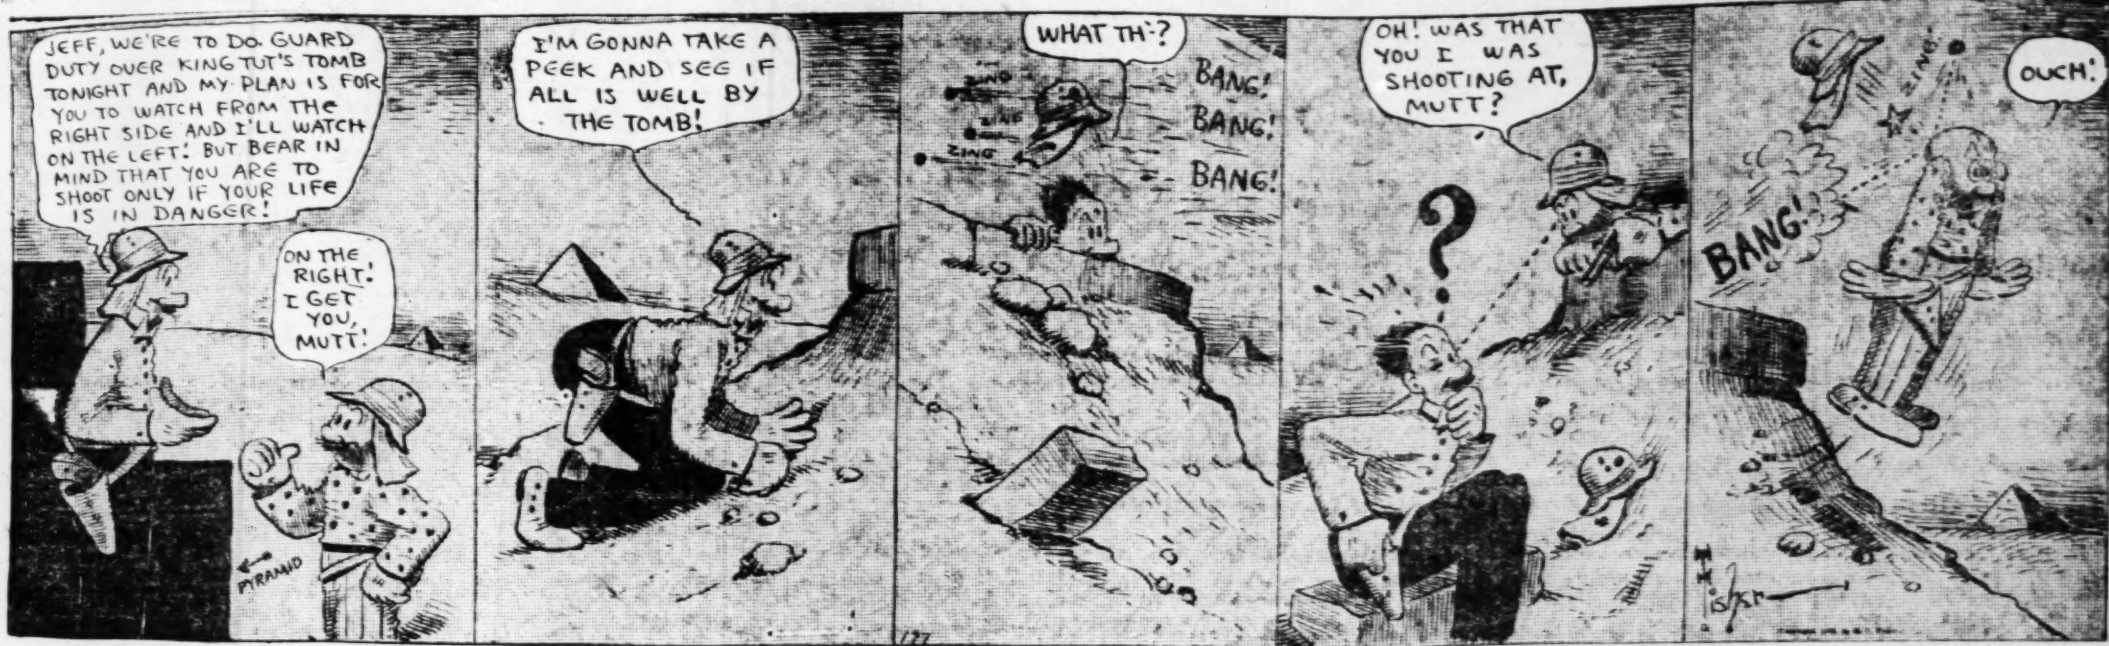

Our friend faced front.

"Mr. Barker," he said, "I'm going to be in the fashion while I'm here in New York, if it kills me. Give me a quart of blushing."

GANGSTER SLAIN IN A GAMING PLACE AT VENICE, ILL.

Man Shot at 5 A. M. by Janitor, Who Says He Was Fired On, Identified by St. Louis Detectives as John P. Joyce, Member of "Cuckoos."

SLAYER RELEASED BY VENICE POLICE

He Says Shots Were Fired Through Partition Where He Was Looking for Coal
After an Inquiry by Telephone.

The body of a man who was shot and killed at 5 a. m. today in a gambling house in Venice, Ill., by George Busk, former Venice police man and watchman at the place, was identified this afternoon by Detectives Roach and Kinzer of St. Louis
as that of John Joyce, 30 years old,
member of the "Cuckoo Gang" of police characters.

Busk said that the man identified as Joyce had broken into the place through a rear door and had fired two shots at him before he returned the fire. Busk's version of the killing was accepted by Chief of Police Clifford and he was released.

Awakened by Telephone.

The police reported that Busk related that he was awakened by the telephone bell at 5 a. m. and that a man's voice asked him to look for a gray cravenette coat that had been left there the night before. A Busk started to look for the coat
he heard the crash of glass in a rear room and when he demanded to know who was there two shots were fired at him through a partition.
Busk returned the fire and telephoned the police.

When the police arrived they found a man dead from a bullet wound above the heart in a hallway
leading from the rear door, the glass of which had been broken so that the door could be opened from the outside.
The man wore a gray cravenette coat, brown fedora hat, tan shoes and blue suit with pencil stripes. His coat was engraved, "J. P. J., an off button." "J. P. J."

An air of mystery was thrown about the killing by everyone who whom reporters came in contact even the police being reluctant to disclose the address of the house where the killing occurred.

Arrested Many Times Here.

Detectives Roach and Kinzer viewed the body in an undertaker's establishment at Madison.

Joyce had been arrested many times in this city during investigations of robberies. He was arrested last Monday in an investigation of the White Hardware Co. burglary, which a companion of his, Ray Thonton, has been identified as one of the thieves.

"UNCLE JOE" WELCOMED HOME

Thousands of Persons at Danville
Depot to Greet Him.

DANVILLE, Ill., March 9.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon returned to Danville late this afternoon, a private citizen after a half century of public life, 64 of which were as Congressman of this district. Thousands of persons gathered at the depot where he was met by members of the Vermilion County Bar Association and the Chamber of Commerce and escorted to his home. He was very tired and after a short speech from the steps of his home went to bed for a rest. Several hours later plans for a monster reception were abandoned several days ago at the request of Cannon.
